Fraser Valley Puddles Grow

By AP, UPI

While Montana and Alberta, shaking off shock and fatigue, are starting clean-up operations on areas from which flood waters have subsided, torrents rushed over highways and two railways in Northern British Columbia yesterday to turn the lower Fraser Valley into a big puddle.

Australians Battle Vast Flood

SYDNEY (Reuters) — Vast floods covered almost 20,000 square miles of the Australian state of New South Wales yesterday.

The floods have led to one death by drowning, the evacuation of hundreds of people from their homes and an estimated hundreds of thousands of pounds in damage. The floods extend for 200 miles.

Blast Rocks Latin City

SANTO DOMINGO (Reuters) — A tremendous explosion in an army training centre rocked Santo Domingo in the Dominican Republic late Thursday night, shattering windows more than a mile away.

A hospital reported that casualties were arriving "in the hundreds."

First reports indicated that the blast occurred in a munitions dump in the camp, which lies across the river from the main section of Santo Domingo. A huge fire still was burning two hours later.

It was feared that casualties would be heavy, particularly among troops stationed in the camp.

See End to Problem Says Mayor Wilson

'BEEHIVES' MUST GO

By IAN STREET

City council yesterday initiated action that will lead to banning of beehive waste burners—major source of air pollution—but decided to give operators until May 15, 1965, to comply.

Mayor R. B. Wilson told yesterday's council meeting that after private talks with officials of two offending mills "we definitely can see an end to the problem."

"Unfortunately," the mayor said, "this will not come about as soon as we would like. But there will be a progressive improvement in the situation over the next few months as new equipment is installed."

TO DRAFT BYLAW

Aldermen unanimously approved Mayor Wilson's suggestion that the city solicitor be instructed to bring forward legislation which would outlaw open burners starting May 15, 1965.

Nigeria

Police Get Tough

LAGOS (CP-Reuters) — Nigeria's general strike entered its 12th day today with evidence that both police and businessmen are taking a tougher attitude toward the strikers.

STAMPED OUT

Hundreds were scared into a stampede as the police used gas for the first time since the strike began over governmental rejection of wage increases recommended by an official commission.

ULTIMATUM ISSUED

Several firms in Lagos reported a break in the strike following an ultimatum issued by major companies telling their workers to return by Friday or be dismissed.

An exception would be made, Mayor Wilson said, "only in cases of the utmost emergency," when waste burning would be carried out under a daily permit issued by the city.

DEFINITION STATED

He said following the meeting that a definition of what would constitute an emergency would have to be agreed upon during framing of the new legislation, which is to start immediately.

Council earlier heard a strong protest from merchants in the Mayfair shopping centre and corroboration from city smoke inspector Sam Mottishaw, who reported tests show an increase in flyash fallout at the $6,000,000 shopping complex since mid-February.

REPLIES READ

Replies to council's inquiry as to when the offending waste-burners would be shut down, was also read.

H. A. Smith, president of Smith Cedar Products Ltd., said this would be achieved by May 15 next year and "we will make every effort to advance this date if at all possible."

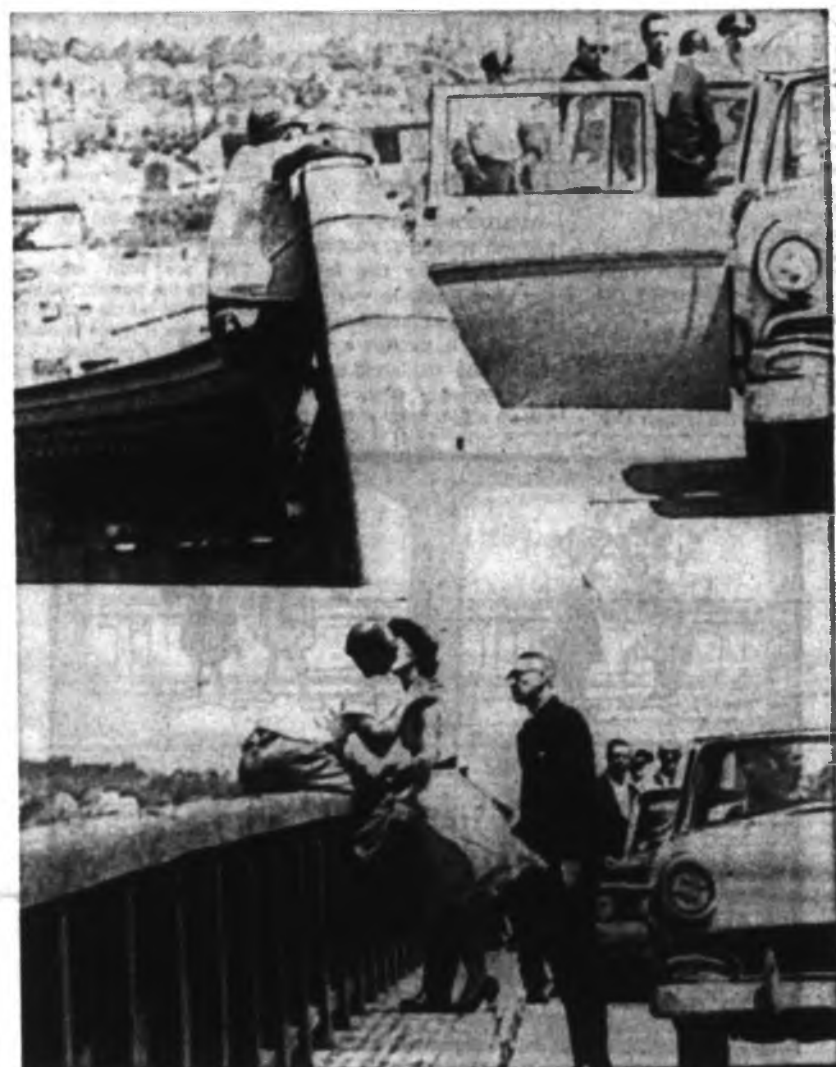

REDUCE FLYASH

The firm also undertook to install "with the utmost possible speed" a chipping plant which will reduce the amount of waste material going into the burner and thus bringing an earlier improvement in the flyash situation.

Efforts to find a market for hog fuel, which have met with no success so far, will be continued and indications are that this goal will be achieved by early summer of 1965. At that time the burner will be "dis-mantled and shut down," said Mr. Smith.

Herbert Barnes, spokesman for British Columbia Forest products, Point Ellice division, said the mill is to remain in operation until the end of this year.

Turkish Leaders Cheerful

ANKARA (AP)—Turkish leaders radiated optimism Thursday night that a military showdown over Cyprus can be avoided with Greece after talking with George W. Ball, U.S. undersecretary of state.

"We are on the way to find a solution," Premier Ismet Inonu told reporters shortly after Ball left for Washington. "The allies have made and are making efforts to resolve the question between Greece and Turkey."

The only jarring note was a Greek assertion that three Turkish fighter planes flew low over Rhodes, sending the population into a panic.

Gardener Fired, Fined

'I Spanked Her Bottom'

LONDON (AP) — Viscount Portman's head gardener admitted Thursday he gave Lady Portman a severe spanking to show her who was boss in the Portman greenhouse.

"I soundly spanked her bottom," Frank Klingenspor said in a magistrate's court in the Buckinghamshire village of Beaconsfield.

The judge fined the 61-year-old gardener £30 ($90) on a charge of assault, put him under a bond of £50 ($150) to keep the peace for the next 12 months and ordered him to stay at least one mile distant from the Portman estate for the next three years.

The prosecution said the dispute, which culminated in the spanking of her ladyship, who is 47, occurred May 30 in the greenhouse of the Portman estate, Berkeley House.

Said the prosecutor: "Lady Portman made a normal and reasonable request for Mr. Klingenspor to leave the greenhouse unlocked in the afternoon as she and her husband wanted to use it."

"Mr. Klingenspor replied 'indeed I will not. I am not going to have you mucking around my plants when I'm not here.'"

door, threw her down and beat her.

"Her ladyship," said the prosecutor, "suffered a considerable degree of bruising and abrasion."

His lordship fired the gardener forthwith.

Testifying in his own defence, Klingenspor said he was only defending his flowers.

He conceded that he lost his temper with her ladyship.

"I put my arms on the back of her neck to get her out and in the struggle pushed her to the ground," he said. "I then soundly smacked her bottom. She may have had cuts and bruises, but it wasn't malicious on my part."

Conversation with Eisenhower as he looks back to Invasion: 1944

U.S. 101st Division paratroopers falling behind Utah Beach.

Success of Troop Drop Ike's Greatest Worry

General, how do you think we succeeded so well in keeping the secret of the invasion day and location from the German high command?

We took extreme measures to keep the secret of the invasion. When we started to move the assault troops to their embarkation places in England, we passed them up and wouldn't let them out. We couldn't afford to have them running around in the villages talking to everyone!

We went so far as to stop all diplomatic exchanges from the embassies of the world with London. This was embarrassing to the British government, but they stuck right by it.

We did everything to keep information from getting out.

On top of that, we did a lot to confuse the enemy. We activated phantom armies—that is, made the enemy believe we really had armies that didn't exist. We had radios going with phantom messages for phantom units, hoping that the enemy would intercept these fake communications.

To show you how well we succeeded, Gen. (Hans) Spodel of the German Army, who was (German Gen. Erwin) Rommel's Chief of Staff in France, wrote a book five years after the war. In that book he said, "We wondered why the Allies didn't use their 75 divisions at once." We did not have 75 divisions! We had something like 35 in England, including Canadian, British, one Polish, one French, and all of ours.

Even more than that, our deception measures kept those strong enemy forces in the

Dog's Loyalty Kills Boy

BETHESDA, Md. (UPI)—Roger Rosander, 16, and his dog stood on the bank of an old canal and watched a neighbor and his son swimming. Roger realized he wasn't a good swimmer but yesterday's 100-degree Washington area weather was miserable. And when Lee K. Buchanan, 39, of Bethesda and his son, Mark, 14, reached the far shore, 250 yards across, Roger and his retriever jumped in the water and started after them. Half way over, Roger floundered and began flailing his arms. The elder Buchanan came swimming to the rescue. He got Roger in a life-saving grip and started pulling him to safety. But only 30 feet from the shore, Roger's dog attacked Buchanan, obviously believing his master was himself being attacked. The dog clamped down on the man's free swimming arm. Buchanan vainly tried to shake the animal loose. In the struggle, he lost his grip on the boy. Roger's limp body slipped beneath the water. Hours of dragging failed to locate it.

Negroes March To Old City's Slave Market

ST. AUGUSTINE, Fla. (UPI)—About 300 Negroes—admonished to follow the example of jailed leader Martin Luther King—marched in a well-disciplined formation through crowds of jeering whites last night to the old slave market—symbol of their desegregation campaign.

The marchers, accompanied by white-helmeted police officers and police dogs and protected by a force which numbered about 300—were so disciplined they did not flinch when firecrackers were thrown at their feet from narrow side streets in this historic old city.

The Negroes marched two abreast along the sidewalk, followed by whites who taunted them with catcalls and cries of "Look at those niggers go."

The demonstrators marched along without an outward quiver during the disturbance, but police dogs set up an excited howl and were closely checked by their handlers, who spoke soothing words to the beasts.

Mr. King, who arrived here earlier this week to take charge of the demonstrations, was arrested in what he described as a deliberate "act of civil disobedience."

"It will be the worst thing that ever happened to Negroes in St. Augustine if you don't follow Martin Luther King," said Rev. Andrew Young, an aide to King. He addressed the demonstrators before they assembled for the march.

Arrests Nip Civil Rights Protest

TUSCALOOSA, Ala. (UPI)—Police surrounded a church packed with Negro civil rights demonstrators yesterday, arrested their leaders and broke up a planned protest march before it got started.

Negroes later filed suit in federal court at Birmingham seeking to enjoin law enforcement officials from interfering with peaceful demonstrations.

Rev. T. Y. Rogers, leader of the local desegregation movement, said further marches would be held up pending a ruling of the court.

Civil Rights Held Firm

WASHINGTON (AP)—The U.S. Senate, with its bipartisan leadership in firm control of the voting, beat down on solid margins Thursday a succession of efforts to make major changes in the civil rights bill. The only amendments approved—with the leadership's acquiescence—were described generally as clarifying.

Pimpernel Is Guilty

PRETORIA (CP)—Judge Quintus De Wet yesterday found Negro nationalist leader Nelson Mandela and seven other persons guilty, climaxing an eight-month trial on conspiracy charges against the South African government that has stirred world-wide attention.

Sentences will be pronounced Friday. The death penalty could be imposed.

FOUR COUNTS

Mandela, known as the Black Pimpernel, and former leader of the banned African National Congress, and party secretary-general Walter Sisulu were found guilty on all four counts against them—two under the Sabotage Act, one under the Suppression of Communism Act and one under the General Law Amendment Act.

The nine persons on trial were accused of membership in a group allegedly formed to direct a violent revolution, guerrilla warfare and a military invasion of South Africa.

De Wet found the ninth defendant, Lionel Bernstein, also a member of Mandela's "national high command" not guilty and discharged him. But Bernstein was rearrested under another charge.

Also found guilty on all four counts was Dennis Goldberg. He and Bernstein were the only white men among the nine defendants.

Twin Tower Planned For Georgian

VANCOUVER (CP)—Vancouver hotelman Frank Bernard has purchased the Georgian Towers Hotel and the surrounding block-square property for a reported $3,000,000.

The sale was announced Thursday by William Pattison, president of Delta Properties Ltd., which has been leasing the hotel and property to Mr. Bernard.

Mr. Bernard said he plans to build a twin-tower on the adjoining property as a combination hotel-office complex which would include a convention centre.

The Decision

THE GOVERNMENT'S bill to replace Canada's armed forces chiefs of staff with a single supreme commander has been approved without amendment by the Commons defence committee despite a number of important arguments advanced against it by some of the nation's outstanding experts on defence matters.

There is now nothing (other than an extremely unlikely upset vote in the House of Commons) standing between Defence Minister Paul Hellyer and the implementation of his new concept of defence for Canada.

In putting it into practice Mr. Hellyer and the government will do so with the full knowledge that the plan was drawn up without the advice of the present chiefs of staff, and that it is based on an idea tried and rejected by both Great Britain and the United States.

It is to be hoped that the government as well as Mr. Hellyer and his select coterie of advisers fully realize this. It is also important that the federal administration appreciate the fact the main Canadian critics of the plan appeared before the defence committee not as partisan representatives but as Canadians whose chief concern was the security of the nation.

Whether or not the nation—with its growing international peace-keeping commitments coupled with its own territorial defence responsibilities—can afford to continue to ignore the weight of evidence presented against the proposed changeover is now up to the government to decide.

Too Much Undress

PARLIAMENT is intrigued by the $30,000 of taxpayers' money spent on a documentary film titled "Mr. Pearson," which won't be shown because of what Opposition members suspect is government interference with the CBC.

This is denied and the grounds for withdrawal cited as technical imperfections.

Newsmen who have viewed the film are equally intrigued but for a different reason. They are reported to be aghast at the image of the prime minister the film projects and wonder how it ever came to be made. Intended to be a "candid human study of a man in highest office," apparently it turns out to be too human, with the warts common to most men showing up in embarrassing fashion.

Some newsmen assess the film as "political dynamite" if ever it was shown across the country, from which one may judge Mr. Pearson was not as canny as he might have been. Some scenes evidently reflect him as none too wise in off-the-cuff statements, while others suggest both he and his officials forgot the camera was present.

But so many of his incautious remarks have seen the light of print it might be better all round for the CBC to telecast the film and let the public make up its own mind. The producer says for instance that Mr. Pearson saw the film and "laughed in the right places." It will be a pity if the public is to be denied a laugh too, especially since the producer intends to show the film at festivals "right around the world."

A documentary of human interest is all the more inviting when the subject is willing to undress, as it were, but apparently Mr. Pearson has been more naive than is customary with high-level political figures. He often is, as a matter of fact.

Who Hollered What?

NATURE FOR SOME reason pays very little attention to politicians, with the exception that—in the accounting of some observers at any rate—she bestows more than the normal ration of sunny days on Premier Bennett and Highway Minister Gagliardi for important outdoor occasions.

She is certainly letting down Mr. Ray Williston, B.C.'s minister of water resources, who was so quick to take umbrage as if fault were being laid at his door when the federal resources minister, Mr. Arthur Laing, expressed early in May in the Commons his concern about the potential flooding situation in the province, which he said was serious.

As we remarked at the time, but for the acute sensitivity that arises from partisan rivalry Mr. Williston might have quietly said that he believed Mr. Laing's fears were groundless and that he must have received misleading information. Instead, however, he accused the federal minister of "hollering wolf" and creating needless alarm, and even imputed a motive—"I don't know what his purpose is..."

So now the Skeena is overflowing its banks, the Fraser in its lower reaches has crept up to the "unofficial danger level" although the engineers say there is no great hazard—except for a few really hot days—and it looks as if Mr. Williston was much too hasty and definite in hollering "all's well" and creating, as it turns out, unwarranted peace of mind. It could even be that it is better to cry "wolf" without being certain than loudly to reply "nonsense" on the basis of normal expectation and hope.

Certainly the public would be better served if cabinet ministers generally, for this criticism can by no means be reserved for Mr. Williston alone, were less concerned with partisan competition and with always striving to put the other fellow—meaning the man under another political banner—in a poor light.

A Shortage

MR. GREENE: I was also more than a little surprised to hear the hon. member for Winnipeg South Centre use the words "a frightful atrocity" with reference to the proposed flag, a flag which has embodied in it the royal coat of arms for Canada as designated by His Majesty King George V in 1921. I never thought I would see the day when a member of this House would refer to Canada's coat of arms as a frightful atrocity.

Some hon. Members: Shame.
Mr. Churchill: I rise on a question of privilege. I never mentioned the coat of arms as being a frightful atrocity. I said the flag design selected by the Prime Minister was a frightful atrocity. It is only the flag of Guatemala with a superimposition on it.

Mr. Greene: The hon. member is splitting hairs, or splitting the flag, or what have you.

An hon. Member: He has no hairs left to split.

Thinking Aloud

"... of shoes, and ships, and sealing wax..."

By TOM TAYLOR

A NEWS note from Ottawa comes as I sit down to type these lines, to the effect that maybe we won't have a tri-leaf maple cluster as a national flag after all.

'Tis said now that sentiment is changing a bit, especially among NDP MPs, and that a single maple leaf may be substituted. And that the government isn't hidebound about a cluster design.

If it weren't clinging to a refusal to hold a public plebiscite we could settle the whole issue more acceptably than seems likely to be the case.

'Tis said, too, that the trifurcated design was merely proposed because it was part of official heraldry. So much could have been lifted from the coat of arms of the national coat-of-arms.

I had thought though that someone in the midst of the furor of a week ago said in excuse of the design that the triple-leaf was the Queen's flag when she came to Canada. The nuances can change with the weather, you see.

Well, as I have remarked before herein, one single maple leaf would be my preference if this is to be the basic feature of a new flag. 'Twill look much better, particularly if styled as nature grows it.

More preferable, of course, would be if Mr. Pearson let Parliament vote "free" on the flag resolution when it is debated. This could take him out of a hot-spot, too. Win or lose he could then still avoid an election, and with his prestige restored.

Maybe it will even come to that, who knows. If the ministerial mind can be persuaded to change its chosen design it can back off still farther. And maybe then it will be found that the Red Ensign isn't to be despised after all.

Mention of the Queen above said brings her image to the fore, apropos a new effigy of her to adorn Canadian coins, similar to impending changes in other Commonwealth coinage. This time she will be shown wearing a tiara, instead of the bare head depicted on current coins.

On the reverse side of a 50-cent piece, incidentally, you can see the triple-leaf complex the government is having second thoughts about. Also by the way, I wonder what the Queen thinks of the flag controversy.

Alas, we shall never know, unless she keeps a private diary for posterity to ponder and perhaps chuckle over. It would be intriguing without a doubt. I think I read another reason for change of head-to-foot for the new coin design, although for a lady such as always reasons enough and no further questions, please. This was the slightly ungainly touch that the Queen is getting older and a more mature image was appropriate.

Feminine royalty can't hide the passage of birthdays, you see. Milady in most other realms can be coy, reticent or absolutely secretive about her age, but this freedom is not allowed the blood royal.

Don't the guns spout loudly on the Queen's birthday? And even though she shift royal birthdays to a convenient week-end or move them forward or back to suit a summer season, the truth comes out. In the case of Elizabeth the Younger, if so I may designate her, it's but a gentle truth, yet. She was born on April 21, 1926, and so is still on the sunny side of 40.

If you were of that vintage you would not take it seriously amiss, would you?

Nor one supposes do queens whose age accompanies them year by year savor the delicacy of feminine privacy. They too have to get used to things.

And I dare say Her Majesty's new coin effigy won't lessen in any way her pleasing image. Just as a teaser: Would it be less majestic, do you suppose, to suggest the Queen's head as the central feature of a new flag? This would break tradition but it certainly would be distinctive.

And the political alignments would then be interesting to see.

Chicken-Tracks Symbol

Vindication

From The Ottawa Journal

THE directors of the 1967 World's Fair and the man who designed its symbol are entitled to a moment of complacent glory after the emblem won the top award in its category in an exhibition of advertising art.

Some of us didn't rush out in praise of the design. It was much easier to ask low-brow questions about what it was supposed to represent. It was fun to say it looked like chicken tracks and members of Parliament showed once again that they are not art critics.

But the fair stuck to its symbol and now a blue-ribbon jury of New York art directors have given it the palm.

The design remains the design it was before the great vindication. Some may still say it doesn't catch the imagination or send the spirit soaring. The symbol is austere. But after the prize do we detect a new respect? Perhaps it's not dull but clean and powerful. Maybe by the time the World's Fair opens these chicken tracks will seem as reassuring and familiar as the CNR's wiggly trademark.

U.S. Presidential Election

Repercussions Everywhere

By HOWARD GREEN

Former Secretary of State for External Affairs

FOR the next five months political leaders in the United States will be preoccupied with the presidential election.

No wonder we read reports that Premier Khrushchev is unlikely to make any important agreement with the Americans during that period and that U Thant in his capacity as secretary-general of the United Nations will have the opening of the 1964 General Assembly postponed until the election is over.

Others probably see the election campaign as a fine time to make trouble for the Americans. This may account in part for the aggressive tactics now being used by the Pathet Lao forces in Laos and the Viet Cong in South Viet Nam—both being under the wing of North Viet Nam and with Red China in the background.

Before the last world war a presidential election, while important, did not affect people in other countries greatly but now it is bound to have repercussions in every part of the world. The United States is involved in one way or another on all the continents and in most countries.

The 1964 election will be particularly important if the main issue becomes whether a harder, tougher, policy in world affairs should be adopted by the Americans. This is so even though President Johnson seems at the moment to be a sure winner. It is too early yet to be certain of the type of campaign that will be waged but advocates of a "tough" policy have champions in the person of Senator Barry Goldwater of Arizona. The strength shown by him in the Republican primaries indicates that his party may well be advocating much tougher policies than President Kennedy and his successor have followed.

For example Senator Goldwater talks of sending the marines ashore in Cuba, of burning off the foliage in Viet Nam with atomic bombs, of pulling the United States out of the United Nations if the Communist Chinese gain admission and of cutting down the aid going to the developing countries.

While he may not get the Republican nomination his firm stand on these questions is very likely to appear in the platform.

put together at the Republican convention.

One grave danger is that demands by his opponents for a "get tough" policy may force President Johnson to move in that direction.

I have no doubt the present administration will be accused on hundreds of platforms of being "soft" and of ruining American prestige abroad. This same cry went up from the Democrats in 1960 when they were successful in defeating Vice-President Nixon.

It had no basis in fact then and would have none now, but the criticism is supposed to be a good vote-getter; in other words the elector is regarded by the politicians as being gullible on such questions.

Even Mr. Pearson used this type of appeal in the Canadian election of 1963; he copied it complete from the Kennedy campaign three years earlier and picked up many votes in this way.

Be that as it may the important thing now is what is said and done in the United States during these next few months.

No country can do more to strengthen or to destroy world co-operation than our big neighbor to the south—and co-operation among the nations is still a very young and tender plant.

No other great power has given such consistent support to the United Nations and a reversal of American policy at this time might well be a fatal blow to the world organization.

For Canada the presidential election is unlikely to make much difference. Our affairs never loom very large in an American campaign and we shall probably continue in the position of being taken for granted.

After the election, and no matter which side wins, there will be the usual crop of Canadian-American problems coming up and they will have to be dealt with one by one.

The important factor in the relations between the two countries is the friendship and understanding which exists between thousands and thousands of Canadians and Americans as private citizens. Just as long as this situation continues government leaders on both sides of the border will of necessity find means of cooperating.

Americans have no shortage of problems ranging all the way from civil rights at home to waging an undeclared war in Southeast Asia; and the American election campaign will make one carried on in Canada look like a garden party.

When the dust of the presidential election has settled we will probably be surprised at how little things have changed. Meanwhile there are bound to be harsh things said and harsh policies advocated.

One thing sure is that a large percentage of the American electors will be participating on either one side or the other. This is a very healthy process and a great contrast to the position in Canada where most people regard themselves as spectators privileged to sit back and watch a small minority of the electorate trying to make democracy function.

What many don't realize is the difficulty of getting a conviction for impaired driving.

Yet I'm told at the motor vehicle department a machine such as an approved drunkometer would solve the problem.

I also learned from that department that several years ago The Canadian Medical Association made representation to the minister of justice, Ottawa, for the necessary changes to the Criminal Code which would provide for the use of drunkometers for the testing of those suspected of operating a vehicle while impaired or drunk.

What happened to that representation? M.L.P.

He is making his plans for the California scrimmage in characteristic Scrantonian fashion. Mr. and Mrs. Scranton plan to take their two older children on a tour of the west immediately preceding the convention. They will go to the Grand Canyon, Las Vegas, Disneyland in Southern California, and then on a pleasure drive through Sequoia National Park and the redwoods to San Francisco.

He will, therefore, arrive about July 11 or 12, a day or two before the convention opens. It means he will not be on hand for the strenuous pre-convention jockeying that might put a compromise candidate. Isn't that letting it go by default? No, say the ardent young men close to him, he has always played it cool and reluctant, and so they insist, this does not rule out another political miracle.

Washington Calling

Scranton Dilemma

By MARCUS CHILDS
from Harrisburg, Pa.

HERE in what is still largely a Republican state the prospect of a Goldwater ticket looms against the Western horizon like a gallows tree. No one quite says this out loud. But the whispers are becoming a swelling chorus that could make itself heard if only time has not run out. Time is, of course, the element in short supply.

To Gov. William W. Scranton the agonizing dilemma of his divided party looks today much as it did six months ago. It may be more acute. But from the day last December when he had dinner with former President Eisenhower in Eisenhower's private railway car parked in the yards here the horns of the dilemma have been the same.

Eisenhower was saying: You must be prepared to be the presidential nominee of our party.

Scranton was saying: If there is an evident demand from the leaders of the party then I stand ready to accept a draft.

At the eleventh hour this is what he is still saying. The eager and devoted young men around him grind their teeth in frustration. But the logic of his position is that if today or at any time in the recent past he had a part in a "stop Goldwater" movement, he could never become the compromise choice of the convention.

He might, to be sure, have leaped into the fray and battled out the primaries around the country—he is being blamed now for not doing just that. But he was in the first months of his first term as governor, with pressing state problems to try to resolve and firm commitments made to Pennsylvania. He felt he could not seek the presidency as an active candidate.

Paralyzed by their own indecision the party leaders never sounded the call. They seem to have hoped that if only they looked the other way the Goldwater movement would disappear. It is only now that the Scranton phone has begun to ring with an almost-despairing urgency.

With the rueful smile that lights his rather somber patrician face, the governor concedes that his position is an uncomfortable one. Two weeks ago in Washington the Republicans in Congress from Pennsylvania got him in a private session and, as he puts it, read him the riot act. A Goldwater ticket would mean the almost-certain loss of seven seats in the House and the probable loss of the Senate seat held by Hugh Scott.

This points up the difference between the Republican party in Pennsylvania and in Goldwater country, notably in California where the Goldwaterites are in control. The party in Pennsylvania has 54 of the 67 court-houses, half the cities, both houses of the legislature, the governor, 14 of the 27 seats in the House in Washington and one of the two senators. In contrast from this broad base, the Goldwaterites in California look like a minority within a minority party or perhaps more nearly like members of a dedicated if not fanatical sect.

The broad base of Republicanism in Pennsylvania, New York and half a dozen other states, including even Ohio, could be washed away with a Goldwater ticket overwhelmed in the urban centres of the east. That is the clear prospect and, while Governor Scranton disavows it in public, it makes no secret of it in private.

Listening to the cries of despair beginning to arise, the governor is calm, cool and collected. Will there be at San Francisco big "Scranton for President" banners across a Scranton-for-president headquarters? The answer, he says, is no.

He is making his plans for the California scrimmage in characteristic Scrantonian fashion. Mr. and Mrs. Scranton plan to take their two older children on a tour of the west immediately preceding the convention. They will go to the Grand Canyon, Las Vegas, Disneyland in Southern California, and then on a pleasure drive through Sequoia National Park and the redwoods to San Francisco.

He will, therefore, arrive about July 11 or 12, a day or two before the convention opens. It means he will not be on hand for the strenuous pre-convention jockeying that might put a compromise candidate. Isn't that letting it go by default? No, say the ardent young men close to him, he has always played it cool and reluctant, and so they insist, this does not rule out another political miracle.

Today In History

By The Canadian Press

William Jansen, New York superintendent of schools, told a state inquiry 13 years ago today—in 1951—that an estimated 1,500 of the city's 300,000 high school students were drug addicts. Several days later, the head of the police narcotics squad testified there were about 6,000 teen-age addicts in the city.

Partition of Cyprus Only Lasting Solution

By Colonist Military Reporter DON GAIN, from Nicosia, Cyprus

Separation of the Greek and Turkish Cypriot communities is the only realistic and sound solution to the Cyprus problem, Dr. Fazil Kuchuk, Turkish vice-president of the Republic of Cyprus, told me in an interview this week.

"Partition or some form of federation is the only realistic and sound solution which would bring to an end the division between Greeks and Turks and establish a lasting peace in the region," he said.

We sat in a reception room of the large official residence on Tobruk Street in the Turkish sector of Nicosia. Fazil Plumer, minister of agriculture and natural resources, attended the vice-president and, from time to time, answered questions.

My questions had been submitted beforehand and now I had a typewritten copy of the doctor's answers, but he called for Turkish coffee to be served and invited further discussion.

"We want the northern portion of the island," he said, "and because 37 per cent of the land belongs to the Turkish community we ask that much of the island."

Mr. Plumer said the boundary should be a line from Famagusta on the east drawn west through the middle of Nicosia and then to Lefkia.

"Already 30,000 Turkish Cypriots have been uprooted," he said. "Their houses have been looted and burned by the Greeks, their crops damaged and they are depending on supplies from the Red Crescent in Turkey."

"Turks under Greek rule cannot live," Dr. Kuchuk said. "There were 300,000 in Greece in 1923. Now there are 100,000. The rest moved to Turkey."

He said there were only 2,000 Turks in Rhodes. In 1947 there were 20,000 in Crete. In 1913 there were 90,000 Turks. "Now you can't find one."

"But in Turkey," he said, "there are 80,000 Turkish citizens of Greek ancestry and 12,000 Greeks."

If partition becomes a fact, he said, "it depends on the people what form of government they would have but we'd prefer to join Turkey."

Increased powers should be given to United Nations forces in Cyprus to deal with "criminal and unconstitutional acts" of the Greek Cypriot government, the vice-president said, adding that if necessary the UN must take over and run the government.

"The aim of the Makarios government is to annihilate the Turkish Cypriots. They have established an army without law and order. They have 30,000 armed men when the legal limit is only 2,000."

I asked Dr. Kuchuk about the parade in the Greek Cypriot section of Nicosia protesting the taking of hostages by Turkish Cypriots.

"It's a trick," he said. "We had 10 or 12. The Red Cross came in February and we released them all in their custody. We have taken no more."

"We don't have enough food for ourselves," said Mr. Plumer. "We don't need more mouths to feed."

I asked what Dr. Kuchuk considered the cause of the trouble that broke out at Christmas.

"Frequent and deliberate violation of or disregard for various provisions of the country's constitution by the Greek elements of government," he said.

He told of "a series of provocative and humiliating searches conducted indiscriminately against Turks and Turkish premises by armed Greek policemen and civilians in spite of repeated representation by the Turkish leadership drawing attention to serious consequences to which these ugly incidents might lead."

Dr. Kuchuk said these incidents culminated in organized armed attacks against the Turkish residents of Nicosia and its suburbs with the ultimate object of eliminating the Turkish element which constituted an obstacle in the materialization of their dream for enosis (union with Greece)."

At the end of the interview Mr. Plumer walked to the door with me. Everything looked very peaceful except for the barricades and sandbags and the guards at the gate.

"The doctor cannot go to his office," Mr. Plumer said. "The Greeks ransacked it."

Air Rates Cut On Fresh Fish

MONTREAL (CP)—Air Canada announced Tuesday it has introduced new commodity rates for the movement of fresh fish to boost the company's business from the fishing industry.

With the new rates, shipments of more than 5,000 pounds of fresh fish may obtain price reductions of as much as 10 cents a pound, Air Canada officials said.

BACKGROUND

Space Mirror Blinding

WASHINGTON (AP)—A foam-mounted, circular mirror more than four storeys tall, so bright a single flash of sunlight from its surface could set fire to buildings or blind people, has been developed for U.S. Air Force space research.

The 45-foot-diameter, saucer-shaped "solar collector," of aluminized film backed with urethane foam, was built face down inside a building.

When it had to be turned face up for final inspection, it was moved outdoors at night to avoid the danger of sunlight striking its surface by accident.

The mirror may one day be orbited to provide electrical energy to power radios and other equipment on a manned space station.

China Extends Army Training

PEKING (Reuters)—Parasol training for Chinese city dwellers is to be extended this summer in accordance with the Chinese Communist leader Mao Tse-tung's dictum that "all people are soldiers."

Short-term military camps are to be organized in and near large towns on a larger scale than in previous years.

U.S. Gloves Off in Laos

By HAROLD MORRISON
From Washington

The war in Laos has reached a new turn which may indicate the path the United States may finally follow in its whole approach to the crumbling situation in Southeast Asia.

It is the path of intensified military action, aggravated by a breakdown in political cohesion within the Communist and western camps.

While the state department remains silent, reports from Communist China indicate American planes have launched bombing and strafing attacks on Pathet Lao positions on the strategic Plain des Jarres. The reports seem to indicate the planes are being challenged only by ground fire.

The ironic element is that these reported attacks should be launched while a group of countries, including Canada, sit in consultation in Vientiane, trying to judge the nature of the recent Pathet Lao advance and what Laotian President Souvanna Phouma should do about it.

In the American view, the Vientiane consultations are nothing more than tragic buffoonery, meaningless in pushing back the Communist advance.

Nor is much stock given to the prospect that either a six-country conference in Zurich or a 14-country conference in Geneva would reverse the Communist thrust in Laos and South Viet Nam.

With the growing prospect that the Republican presidential candidate will be the ultra-conservative Barry Goldwater, President Johnson likely will avoid at all costs the charge that he is soft on Communism while the U.S. position in Southeast Asia is in dire jeopardy.

If American planes do not encounter any great opposition in Northern Laos, the temptation presented to the U.S. is to try the same kind of operation in Communist-held strategic points in North Viet Nam from which the Viet Cong are reported to be directed and controlled.

American strategists have given serious consideration to the risk of enlarging the Vietnamese war through northern strikes. As Senator J. William Fulbright, chairman of the Senate foreign relations committee, has stated:

"It is extremely difficult for a party to a negotiation to achieve by diplomacy objectives which it has conspicuously failed to win by warfare."

High Noon Rewritten

Arizona Kid —Unopposed

By ART BUCHWALD

We've decided to remake the very successful movie, High Noon. In order to bring it up to date, we're going to have to change the story around a bit.

In our film they're having an election for sheriff in the town of Little Elephant Horn. Much to everyone's surprise the Arizona Kid announces he's going to run for the office.

The Arizona Kid is noted for being quick on the draw and shooting first and asking questions afterwards. The respectable citizens in the town are horrified at the thought of his being sheriff.

As our story opens, several of the Arizona Kid's henchmen are waiting at the railroad station for him to arrive on the noon train.

It's 10:45 a.m. on the station clock. A small group of respectable citizens go over to visit the Old Sheriff at his farm to persuade him to come out against the Arizona Kid.

The Old Sheriff shakes his head. "Boys, I'd like to help you, but I'm getting on in years, and I don't feel it's my place to interfere. I don't like the Arizona Kid any more than you do, but I'm not going to get mixed up in town politics."

"But everyone respects you," the citizens plead. "If you say the Kid's irresponsible, a lot of folks are going to listen."

"Boys, you know I don't like to deal in personalities. I got my farm and my cattle and I've been through the war. I just want to settle down and be left alone."

The clock at the railroad station shows 11 o'clock and Arizona Kid's henchmen are whooping it up.

The citizens decide to ride over and see Pennsylvania Bill and ask him if he'll run against the Arizona Kid.

Pennsylvania Bill says, "If everyone in this town comes to me and says they want me to be sheriff, then I'll consider running for the office. But I'm not going out into the street and try to stop the Arizona Kid. I may not agree with him, but I'm not going to mess with him."

"But the Old Sheriff wants you to run against the Kid," someone says. "You know the Arizona Kid will see Little Elephant Horn back 20 years."

"I know it," Pennsylvania Bill says, and I'm available. But the only way I can be convinced is if all the townspeople carry me on their shoulders down Main Street."

"Would you consider being deputy sheriff?"

"I'd have to find out where the Arizona Kid stood first, but I wouldn't rule it out."

It's 11:30 and the nervous citizens go over to see former Deputy Sheriff Dick. They plead with him to do something about the Arizona Kid.

Dick says, "Men, I'll do anything anyone wants me to—but I ain't going to tangle with the Arizona Kid. If you can knock him off, I'd be very happy to run for sheriff. But I'm not about to get into a fight."

The clock at the railroad station reads 11:45. The citizens go to see the Rock. He tells them he can't stop the Arizona Kid alone. He almost got killed trying.

"I'm willing to go out into the street with a gang of guys and I can supply some guns and horses. But the Arizona Kid has me outnumbered and I can't do it by myself."

It's five of 12. The responsible citizens hear the train whistle and they all go to their houses, lock the doors, and pull down their window shades.

At high noon the Arizona Kid gets off the train as his laughing henchmen cheer. He walks down the main street of Little Elephant Horn prepared to shoot it out with anyone who tries to stop him. But no one dares to come out into the hot noon sun.

The only difference between our film and the original High Noon is that in this one nobody wants to play Gary Cooper.

Quackery Big Business Pharmacist Rally Told

KAMLOOPS (CP) — Dr. M. J. Huston, dean of the faculty of pharmacy at the University of Alberta, said Thursday that medical quackery is big business now and has become a serious problem.

Addressing the annual meeting of the B.C. Pharmaceutical Association, he urged health authorities and the profession to recognize the problem and take action at the organization and individual level.

SAME AS CANADA

He said it was estimated that today in the United States more than $1,000,000,000 is wasted each year on quack cures. There was reason to believe the situation was approximately the same in Canada.

Medical quackery thrived on ignorance, suspicion, fear, superstition and desperation, he said. The public should be enlightened.

"I feel," he said, "that our professional societies can take

'Unqualified' People Probe Ordered To Check TV Repairing

A government investigation into charges that unqualified people are making repairs to TV sets has been ordered by Labor Minister Peterson.

The probe was ordered following protests from the Radio Electronics Technicians Association.

ENFORCE LEGISLATION

The association asked that Bill 31, the legislation covering trade men's qualifications should be enforced.

Mr. Peterson said the bill would be enforced if the investigation showed it to be necessary.

WITHOUT PAPERS

Rudy Adamek, president of the association, said "every Tom, Dick and Harry is repairing TV sets without the necessary papers."

He pointed out that his organization was responsible for setting up the exam system and 90 per cent of its members voluntarily took the government exams as well as the association tests.

Bill 31 permits only qualified persons to service certain types of machinery and equipment, including radios and television.

It's Pay-Off Time for Investors

By HARRY YOUNG
(Colonist Business Editor)

The reward for the quickening tempo of Canadian industry in the past year is now showing up in dividend cheques going out to shareholders. Many of Canada's leading firms have recently either increased their dividend rates or have made dividend payments for the first time.

This week's good news for investors comes from Consolidated Mining and Smelting. The big Trail metal refining company announced Thursday it was changing its dividend policy by making an annual payment of $1.60 a share, in two equal payments of 80 cents each July and January, starting next month.

Previously Consolidated Mining has been paying 40 cents each half year supplementing it with extra. Last July in addition to the regular 40 cents it paid 20 cents extra and last January the extra was 30 cents.

As the company says its shareholders should not in future look for extra payments, it would appear the new rate of $1.60 is up 30 cents from the total amount paid last year.

Biggest beneficiary from the increased Cominco dividend is Canadian Pacific Railway, which holds 8,124,500 of the Trail company's 16,361,645 shares outstanding.

Cominco has not paid such a large dividend since 1957 when it distributed $1.55 (80 cents regular and 75 cents extra).

RECORD PAYMENTS

Figures for the first half of 1964, show that Canadian companies have made a record dividend disbursement for any first six months period.

The total payments of $491,453,148, compare with $470,648,326 a year ago and $458,526,783 two years ago. The June figure of $132,051,841 was 44 per cent above the record of a year ago.

Among the companies making bigger payments in June are—Algoma Steel, Dominion Stores, Imperial Oil, International Petroleum, Interprovincial Pipe, Massey Ferguson and Simpson-Sears.

BILL YIELD DOWN

The government received its top price since last August for its 91-day treasury bills Thursday. The average yield was 3.33 per cent, down .02 per cent from a week ago, and down .37 per cent from the 1964 high.

The last time the yield was lower was Aug. 8, 1963, when it was 3.32 per cent.

BANKER APPROVES

The most important of the many recommendations made in the Porter report on banking and finance is the removal of the 6 per cent ceiling on loan rates, says the top executive of Canada's largest bank.

W. Earl McLaughlin, chairman and president of the Royal Bank of Canada, in a major address on the report at the annual meeting of the Winnipeg Chamber of Commerce Wednesday evening, said the lifting of the ceiling would remove barriers and allow the banks to compete for the type of loans which at present are denied them.

Mr. McLaughlin said it was not true the removal of the ceiling would increase lending rates generally.

He said those who borrowed at the banks present rates would continue to do so at those rates and perhaps because of keener competition at even lower rates.

The six per cent ceiling imposed on the banks had forced borrowers to go without funds or to obtain them at higher rates from other sources. The Porter recommendation would be to their benefit.

He also approved the idea that the "near banks" should be chartered or licensed under the Bank Act.

"With the new range of competitive freedom, I, as a banker, have no objections to the near banks as full-fledged members of the society of banking institutions with equal rights, privileges and obligations," he said.

PESO TAKES OPTIONS

This year's $50,000 program will earn Peso Silver 100,000 shares of Mayo stock, if Peso does not elect to proceed further with the development.

Mayo property adjoins Peso's own holdings.

Timmins Boom To Be Probed

TORONTO (CP) — Attorney-General A. A. Wishart of Ontario has ordered a three-man investigation into the trading of stocks of companies having claims near Timmins, scene of a recent rich copper-silver strike by Texas Gulf Sulphur Co.

About 80 or 90 companies have been involved in the Timmins area, the Ontario Securities Commission said.

Mr. Wishart said the government is interested in finding out what "economic benefits" have resulted from the stock market activity.

The Texas Gulf strike touched off two days of the wildest trading ever seen on North American stock markets. A total of more than 28,000,000 shares changed hands on each of the days, most of them of small mining companies.

Scattered Troops Confused Enemy

Pas de Calais even while we were fighting in Normandy—because the Germans still believed that our main attack was coming against the Pas de Calais.

Our deception measures worked quite well.

General George Patton had one of those phantom armies for a while, didn't he?

That's true. And as soon as we brought Patton over to the Continent, we got Gen. (Leslie) McNair over from the United States to take his place and continue the deception—to make the Germans believe we still had additional troops available in Britain we intended to bring over.

What was your greatest concern or worry about D-Day? Was it secret weapons on the part of the enemy?

No, it wasn't the secret weapons. More than anything else, I think my greatest fear involved the paratroopers.

The RAF's Air Chief Marshal Leigh-Mallory, a courageous man with a great reputation for aggressiveness, had made up his mind that it would be a perfectly futile sacrifice of life to put our two American airborne divisions on the Cotentin peninsula.

You see, that area had been reinforced with mobile German troops and they had a lot of flak—anti-aircraft guns. Our aircraft carrying the paratroopers had to come in at a relatively low altitude. They're slow planes. Sometimes they were dragging gliders full of troops behind them. So they were just sitting ducks for the enemy anti-aircraft.

We did the best we could in the planning, and we thought the operation was necessary. The airborne troops were going to land just behind Utah Beach. Behind that beach was what looked like a big lagoon. It was really marshland that the Germans had flooded by damming several rivers. Across that marshland were just several causeways. The troops coming ashore on Utah Beach would never get off the beach—they might be pinned down and pounded to pieces by Boche artillery and mortars—unless we had command of the causeways.

The best way to do it was to get to the far end and take the causeways from the rear, capture them by means of our paratroopers.

Remember, we had decided to widen the D-Day attack, not only to spread the enemy defenses but also to get some of our troops closer to Cherbourg, which we wanted quickly. That's what the troops on Utah were supposed to do. But they wouldn't be able to do this unless they could get across the flooded marsh. And that's where the airborne troops came in, to get these causeways from the rear.

Well, Air Chief Marshal Leigh-Mallory first called my attention to this risky airborne operation some time earlier and voiced his objection to it. We talked it over, not only he and I, but with Gen. Bradley and Gen. (Matthew) Ridgway, Ridgway being the senior American commander of our two airborne divisions. They stood by me on this thing. They believed along with me that the airborne drop was necessary if we were going to make sure that the 4th Infantry Division that was coming in on Utah Beach would be able to get off the beach and across that lagoon.

Leigh-Mallory accepted it for the moment. But about a day or two before the D-Day attack, he came back at me. He was so sure we were making a bad error that he came to see me here in Portsmouth. He was really earnest in his recommendations that we must not carry out that airborne operation.

I went into my trailer by myself, the van where I lived, and thought it over again. I had no need for experts at this late time. And I refused to change the plan. On this theory: the D-Day attack, without the airborne operation, was not a good gamble. From the beginning we had all agreed on that. Now then, what we had to do was everything we could to make it win. Because if we had that 4th Division on Utah Beach stopped by that lagoon, they had less than a 50-50 chance of success. So I felt we had to put those two airborne divisions in, and they had to take St. Mere Eglise (an important local road centre) and capture the causeway exits, and protect our flank. And that was the mission of the paratroopers.

My greatest concern on D-Day was my fear that Leigh-Mallory's dire prediction—that we would lose most of our paratroopers—might come true.

Now, the paratroopers had, I think, about five drop zones.

Leigh-Mallory opposed airborne plan

But because of the flak—and the flak was very serious, because of the bad weather, and because we had young and inexperienced pilots—you know, you don't do this sort of thing often—the paratroopers were scattered pretty badly, all over the Cotentin peninsula.

But they knew their job and they began to concentrate into the areas where they had to go. They did get those causeway exits, and they did capture St. Mere Eglise. Later, when the Germans realized how important that road junction was, they counterattacked it consistently. But our paratroopers held on.

In addition to that, the way they landed scattered all over the place, created great confusion among the Nazis. Those landings diverted and bewildered them.

There was no question about those two airborne divisions going in. They had to.

Although they had some high losses, they were nothing like what Leigh-Mallory had feared.

Incidentally, I had a message. I think sometime about two-thirty or three in the morning, telling me that the paratroopers had landed and that things were going pretty well. Leigh-Mallory found that out not long afterwards, and he phoned me very early that morning. You never heard a man so enthusiastic. He said, "I'm sorry I made your burden heavier."

NEXT: "If any blame or fault attaches to the attempt, it is mine alone," wrote Dwight D. Eisenhower to himself 20 years ago. The note, scribbled on a piece of scrap paper, never had to be used. The General tells about it in Installment Six, "If the Invasion Had Failed."

Eisenhower Visit Tipoff for Scots

By MIKE GADSBY

One of James Stothard's best memories of the days leading up to the D-Day invasion of Normandy was an informal speech by Gen. Dwight D. Eisenhower about a month before the attack.

Mr. Stothard, then a regimental sergeant-major with the Canadian Scottish Regiment, had joined it at the outbreak of war, and paraded the Third Canadian Division before Gen. Eisenhower during final stages of invasion training.

ABOUND JEEP

"Gen. Eisenhower called us around his jeep after the formal inspection," Mr. Stothard recalls. "You know why I'm here," he said. "I can't tell you when, but I hope the next time I see you it will be on the Rhine, and the party will be on me."

"We knew what was coming," said Mr. Stothard, "but we still didn't know where or when."

IN SCOTLAND

"I went to England with the regiment in 1941, and for the first year we were on defensive training. Then we changed over to attack training and combined operations training in Scotland."

No More 'Nazi' Uniforms

LONDON (UPI)—British rail officials have bowed to the objections of employees who don't want to look like Nazi storm troopers.

A temper over tailoring developed over a new style of uniform issued earlier this year to ticket collectors, porters and inspectors at eight railroad stations.

The experimental uniforms, with their high peaked caps, somewhat resemble Second World War German army uniforms.

A panel of rail officials toured the stations this week to test reactions and heard a (peaked) handful of complaints. "We are fed up with being told by the public that we look like Nazis," said Winton Smith, 60, a foreman at Huddersfield.

Does he think his neighbors will accept him?

1,000 LETTERS
"I know they are willing to accept my return. I have over 1,000 letters from people, telling me of their faith in me," said Harris. He added that he has a job waiting him, but declined to disclose details.

His attorney filed notice of appeal in circuit court, they applied for his release on bond.

Harris is under sentence to eight years in prison and a fine of $3,500.

VALE, Ore. (AP)—A Salem man convicted of manslaughter in the death of his wife got out of jail on a $10,000 bond Thursday, pending appeal of his case.

Still protesting innocence, Wilford Keith Harris, 40, headed for Salem.

He said his first act would be to gather his 10 children from the homes of four relatives and get them back under the family roof at Salem.

Harris was accused of first-degree murder, the state contending that he killed his wife for her insurance and made it

Three Dead In Crash

LA VENTANA, N.M. (UPI)—A bus loaded with Kansas high school girls on a church tour smashed broadside into a gravel truck Tuesday.

Gilbey's describe how to garnish a dry martini

Some gins have rather strong flavouring. Others are utterly tasteless. Gilbey's London Dry has a perfect balance for the classic dry martini. A dry flavour that has been the international favourite since 1873. Quite a long time.

Since its invention the dry martini has always been graced with an olive. Very proper with the pit left in. Stuffed olives are acceptable, too.

"After that we were transferred to Bournemouth, then on to a place called Studland Bay, where we did some training under live ammunition."

"We were ready for the worst on D-Day, but casualties weren't as heavy as anticipated," said Mr. Stothard. "I went in on the second wave, which wasn't even as bad as the first."

Space Age Redirects Energies

TORONTO (UPI)—Man must achieve new standards of excellence—both technical and spiritual—if he hopes to conquer space, the windup session of the 55th annual Rotary International convention was told Thursday.

The speaker was Senator Clinton P. Anderson of New Mexico, chairman of the U.S. Senate committee on aeronautical and space sciences, who said he believed the space age would "redirect the energies men once turned against each other."

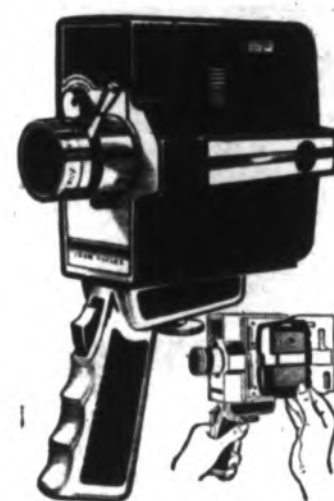

"Morale was pretty high by that time. I think most of us had the attitude that we'd been building up for it for so long that we were glad it was finally here."

Mr. Stothard wasn't so lucky after D-Day. Three days later he was shot in the leg and had to be evacuated. He never got back into the fray.

Saskatchewan Proposal Favored by Strachan

Opposition Leader Robert Strachan said yesterday he supports the Saskatchewan welfare plan because it is not a work-for-welfare scheme.

He was commenting on Premier Bennett's recent support for Saskatchewan's "alleged" work-for-welfare plan.

Mr. Strachan pointed out that he supports the Saskatchewan plan because it is not a work-for-welfare scheme, and that he does denounce the work-for-welfare plans which have been proposed in the past.

Under the proposed plan, according to the Saskatchewan welfare minister, a man "would not be on social aid once he was employed" and would "receive more" than if on social aid.

The welfare minister made it quite clear that this was in reality a plan to extend the present federal-provincial Win-for-Welfare Program to a year-round basis with the federal and provincial governments paying more than 90 per cent of the cost, said Mr. Strachan.

"I certainly support such a move, because I suggested just such a development during the last election," Mr. Strachan said.

"Men should not be degraded and social workers' valuable time wasted in putting the unemployed on social assistance rolls so they can qualify for employment on public works."

'RATIONED POVERTY'

"So-called work-for-welfare on three or four days' work per month in return for a welfare cheque is only rationed poverty. We cannot be satisfied with such a limited objective," he said.

Earlier, Mr. Strachan's statement was misunderstood and reported as though the opposition leader had denounced the Saskatchewan plan.

Lyn Anderson, 19, evicted from cave near Fort Worth, Texas, last week, has been offered others all over United States. Lyn moved into cave for almost three weeks because she "doesn't like people much," but police found her and moved her out. Atom Shot Low Yield NEVADA TEST SITE, Nev. (UPI) — A low-yield underground test was conducted here yesterday by the Atomic Energy Commission.

The AEC said the shot, with a yield of less than 20,000 tons of TNT, was part of the Flowshare Program to develop peaceful uses for nuclear explosives.

The AEC has been experimenting with nuclear explosives to test their practicality for digging canals or harbors.

Mantle, Maris Back in Business

Mickey Mantle is starting to connect from the first-base side of the plate and it may be that the M and M combination is back in business for the struggling New York Yankees.

In and out of the lineup all season because of a variety of ailments and hampered by his over-riding right knee, Mantle started last night's game against Boston Red Sox batting .177 as a southpaw swinger and a rousing .568 from the third-base side of the plate. It was a situation explained by other clubs, who have been utilizing Mantle's threat by starting right-handers against the Yankees as often as possible.

Boston started Bill Monbouquette last night but this time the strategy failed. Mantle slammed out his ninth, and 10th home runs and left-handed facing, helped out with his 10th home run.

Roger Maris, who had been benefitting from the number of right-handers he had been

This kind of old-time Yankee power enabled Jim Boston to ease to an 8-4 win which kept the Yankees in third place and moved them within five games of the leading Chicago White Sox, stopped, 3-1, by the second-place Baltimore Orioles.

A two-run homer by Brooks Robinson in the eighth inning off Hoyt Wilhelm ended a Baltimore losing streak at three games and a White Sox win streak at four games.

Twins turned Minnesota Twins snapped out of it to salvage the final game of a series with Detroit Tigers, winning, 4-3, as Earl

Ballard drove in three runs with a double and a two-run homer. Completing the American League schedule, Los Angeles

Angels swept a four-game series with Cleveland Indians by winning, 5-4, in the 12th inning on a sacrifice fly by La Clinton.

Phillies again The National League lead changed hands again, the Philadelphia Phillies moved up when San Francisco Giants were edged out, 5-6, by Milwaukee Braves.

Second-place finishers will receive $1,250, as against $750; and third-place finishers $750, against $500. Fourth-place money was left unchanged at $250.

For losers in the Stanley Cup semi-finals, the amount is increased to $1,000 from $750. Semi-final winners will continue to get $1,500. No change was made in the $2,000 to Cup final winners and $1,000 to losers.

The new Conn Smythe Trophy will go to the outstanding player in the playoffs. It will be donated by Maple Leaf Gardens.

The NHL owners approved the $1,000 award to go to the winner with the trophy.

Fights All Over Floor As Rocks Lose, 14-7

NEW WESTMINSTER (CP) — Major penalties were handed out right and left here Wednesday night as 1,500 fans witnessed one of the roughest lacrosse matches of the season between a New Westminster and Victoria. New Westminster won, 14-7.

Four two-man fist fights and two minor shoving matches marred the game as tempers flared in the midst of fast lacrosse action.

The first major scrap came in the third period when Victoria's Don Ashbee grabbed Jack Barclay of New Westminster around the neck and threw him to the floor. Barclay scrambled to his feet with fists swinging, but the fight was quickly halted by the referees.

Moments later Ron Loftus of New Westminster kneeled Victoria's Bill Spotswood to start another scrap. Spotswood returned the knee with five fingers across Loftus' face. The pair locked together in an embrace and groped around for several minutes before they were parted.

A third major battle erupted in the fourth period between Wayne Shuttleworth of the host team and Dick Crompton. This time the referees stood back as Shuttleworth landed a series of punches to Crompton's face and body.

New Westminster's Joe Morneau and Barry Ashbee of Victoria engaged in another fist-swinging duel, but no damaging punches were landed.

The fights cost each of the eight participants five minute penalties.

The two minor duels involved shoving matches between Terry McKibbin of New Westminster and Spotswood.

Barclay was the big gun for the winners scoring three times and picking up two assists. Cliff Sepka and Bill Wilkes each had two goals and one assist. Singles were scored by Shuttleworth, Paul Parnell, Don Boyd, Dave Torey, Loftus and Mike Gates.

Don Ashbee picked up a pair of goals and two assists for the losers. Singles were shared by Barry Ashbee, Bill Munroe, Ron Jay, Jim McNeill and Ray Beech.

Hebenton

That or WHL

Andy Still Hoping For NHL Season

Andy Hebenton, 34, and looking as fit as he did when he starred with Victoria Cougars 10 seasons back, still believes he can hold his place in the National Hockey League but says that if it is decreed otherwise, he would like nothing better than to finish out his professional hockey career in his adopted city.

Hebenton was commenting last night on a Canadian Press report from Montreal which speculated that Boston Bruins planned to send him to a minor league club next season, and thus end his record streak of 630 consecutive NHL games.

Lynn Patrick, general manager of the Bruins, declined to comment on the report, which was probably based on the facts that Hebenton had his poorest season last season and was unclaimed in the intra-league draft on Wednesday.

"As far as I know I will be going to the Boston training camp," Hebenton said. "I haven't heard anything different."

He made it clear that he believed he would prove his ability to keep his spot with the Bruins if they gave him a chance.

ON BENCH

"I'm sure that I can still play in the NHL. I know I didn't score as many goals last season but I didn't get much ice time in the last half of the season."

Hebenton added that if the Bruins, or other NHL clubs, couldn't use him that he would not play in either the American or Central Professional Hockey Leagues. "It just wouldn't be worth my while," he said.

WELCOMES CHANCE

However, he said he would "consider" action with a Western Hockey League team and would welcome the chance to play in Victoria if the city should return to the WHL.

Although Victoria hockey fans to a man would like to see Hebenton continue to add to his NHL record the thought of the honest Scot again in a Victoria uniform is an intriguing one.

FAN FAVORITE

During his five full seasons with the Cougars, Hebenton was always a prime fan favorite. In his stay with the Cougars he earned 141 goals and received credit for 123 assists, earning him the NHL with a 46-34 showing in the 1954-55 season which brought him all-star recognition.

New York Rangers drafted him to start an NHL career which has now extended over nine 70-game seasons with Hebenton's name in the lineup all 630 times, making it 12 consecutive seasons of 70 games in which he never missed once.

WINS AWARD

He was an immediate success with the Rangers, not only as the fine defensive forward he always has been but also as a scorer. His rookie season brought him 24 goals, then came seasons of 21, 21, 33, 26, 18 and 15 goals for the Rangers with the Lady Byng award in 1957.

Hebenton was picked up by the Bruins a year ago in the intra-league draft and managed to score 12 goals despite limited action to bring his NHL total to 189, just 11 short of the coveted 200-mark which has been reached by fewer than 40 players in NHL history.

DETROIT Gambled And Lost

MONCTON (CP) — Gordie Howe said Thursday Detroit Red Wings gambled that nobody would grab goaltender Terry Sawchuk if he were left unprotected in the National Hockey League's annual draft.

Toronto Maple Leafs took the 34-year-old Sawchuk for the draft price of $20,000 in Montreal Wednesday.

Howe said Punch Imlach, Leafs general manager-coach, pulled "a real bombshell" by picking Sawchuk and Dickie Moore from Montreal.

"Sawchuk was happy in Detroit and the Red Wings were happy with him, but we wanted to protect other players and gambled by leaving him unprotected."

It was a scoreless affair until the seventh inning, when the Braves scored twice. Eddie Mathews then got the credit for three runs batted in when Harvey Kuenn lost his fly ball in the sun with the bases loaded and it fell in for a double.

But with the Giants rallying for three runs in the last half of the ninth inning, it was ex-Giant Felipe Alou's home run in the top of the inning which decided it.

Houston Colts took advantage of a dropped third strike by catcher Johnny Edwards for a five-run, fifth-inning rally, capped by Bob Appenheimer's grand-slam home run. It was enough to cool off Cincinnati Reds, 5-3.

Los Angeles Dodgers, who may finally be getting righted, knocked off St. Louis Cardinals, 5-0, behind the four-hit pitching of Don Drysdale. It was Drysdale's third shutout and eighth win in 13 decisions.

PHILLIES AGAIN

The National League lead changed hands again, the Philadelphia Phillies moved up when San Francisco Giants were edged out, 5-6, by Milwaukee Braves.

The NHL owners approved the $1,000 award to go to the winner with the trophy.

LAST INNING, McLarens held a 2-0 lead on Jerry Cooper's two-run single. But then they ran into pitching trouble.

Jay Rawlings, leading off for Greaves, was safe on an error. Pitcher Lyn Workman hit Herb Weatherall and walked Dave Benn. Dave Rivers singled home Weatherall, but Weatherall was thrown out at the plate.

Workman walked Larry Montgomery to fill the bases and then gave another free trip to Gary Tuttle to force in the tying run. On came Stan Thame to do the pitching, but he walked Ron Stubbings, the first batter he faced, to score the winning run and end the game.

with Alec Merriman

Saltwater fishing is gradually taking over from the freshwater as salmon start to show in increasing numbers at most fishing spots.

But no kind of fishing could be called really hot just now. Rivers are mostly high and not producing well. Lakes are also high, but are the best bet. Salmon fishing is just coming on fair.

For big springs, Becher Bay seems the best bet with that middle line with the three or five-pound ball on it the best producer. Most of the big ones are being dragged from the bottom and minnow and strip are both working well.

Oak Bay has been pretty good for big springs up to 30 pounds.

Seamich Inlet fell right off for last Sunday's VSIAA derby, following a visit by the killer whales... and there are no indications it has picked up again. There are fish there, including a few of the bigger springs, and they are being taken almost anywhere, but it is taking a lot of searching. Deep Cove, Indian Bay, Coles Bay, Bamberton and Finlayson Arm are best bets.

Following a very disappointing VSIAA derby Sunday, Chinook Club members are now practicing for their own Dr. Hugh Clarke Sportsmen's Fishing Derby June 28. Small springs are showing in Cowichan Bay and are being taken on hootchie kootchie and Strip-Tearer. There have been some reports of fish at Sansum Narrows under the power line and at Crofton, with a 2 1/2 pound wobbler producing well.

Lantzville-Northwest Bay waters are still producing plenty of three to four-pound bluebacks with some reaching the five-pound coho size. Wednesday a southeast wind was keeping anglers off the water, but that is also the wind that brings up the fish, so fishing is expected to be good right from Nanossee Bay through to Deep Bay this weekend.

Good-sized springs are showing off Qualicum Beach and the coho fishing with bucktail is fair off Qualicum Bay and Deep Bay.

First run of good-sized springs has shown off Bates Beach, north of Courtenay.

Joan and Corky Corbett report that at last the bluebacks and coho have hit Campbell River waters in fair numbers. Best fishing has been at the low midday tides, with little or no production in the late afternoon or evening. Small spoons, plugs, flies and herring have all been getting them. April Point, Quathuski, Cape Mudge and Butlers have all been good spots. There have been some big springs up to 27 pounds taken.

Lake fishing is holding up pretty well.

"Fishing is generally very good after gaining momentum about a week ago," writes Peter Edwards from Lake Cowichan. "The lake is consistent from the foot to the head. Small spoons, flatfish and gang trolls are about equal as producers and fly fishing is holding up steady in Marble Bay," he reports.

Glen Mallory reports Battle Lake fishing good for trout up to six pounds, but he warns the lake has risen about 10 feet bringing plenty of debris with it which means motorboaters have to be careful.

John Ebert reports both Upper Campbell and Lower Campbell Lakes are excellent for trout fishermen and that Ladore Dam and McVior Lake areas of Lower Campbell are providing some good dry fly fishing.

Stan Ross reports the far end of Great Central Lake has been giving up some big trout in the four-pound class, with flatfish most productive lure.

Bud Hocking reports Shawngnan Lake fishing good. Lizard Lake just boiled with trout at the weekend, but fishermen met with poor luck.

Indians are enforcing the $2 permit system to fish reserve lands along Cowichan River. Pick up the permits from Duncan sporting goods stores. They are a good and fair investment.

Vancouver Island Shooting League will stage its second C.C.A.M. registered pistol tournament at the Victoria City police range on Sunday at 10 a.m.

Competitors are expected from the northern island and Nanaimo as well as the Victoria Fish and Game Association, who are hosts, and the Pacific Command Revolver Association.

Any service or police personnel who wish to attend the shoot are welcome.

Track Penalty Doesn't Fit Crime

By JACK SULLIVAN
Canadian Press Sports Editor

Hylke van der Wal is known in some circles in North America as a track nut. He also happens to be probably the most dedicated amateur athlete. Canada has known in years.

He's the type who will drop everything, shove his gear in a small overnight travel bag and hitch-hike 5,000 miles to a track meet. In the last 12 years this 26-year-old extrovert has used this method of transportation to travel nearly 250,000 miles to meet in Canada, the United States, Australia, New Zealand, Mexico, Belgium, Germany, Finland.

HE'S BEEN THERE

Name a country in Europe and Hylke has been there doing what he knows best and loves, steeplechasing. He's the fastest man in Canada at his specialty with a clocking of 8:53.3.

This won't win gold medals in international competition but he has shown consistent improvement over the years and his ambition now is to hit the finals of the 3,000-metre steeplechase at the Olympics in Tokyo next October.

"No Canadian has ever reached the finals in this event in the Olympics, and I know I can do it," he said in an interview at Toronto this week. But he may not even make it to Tokyo—even as a hitch-hiker—because this young friendly man has been grounded by over-officious track officials.

The people who run track and field in Canada are dedicated and hard working. But they've got one big rap against them, and that is inconsistency in committee-room discussions.

They suspended Hylke for 60 days because he didn't get the necessary credentials to enter a small meet in the United States. They had him on the carpet for it, and because he didn't apologize, threw the book at him.

Hartack Rides Oaks

TORONTO (CP) — Jockey Bill Hartack, who rode Northern Dancer to Kentucky Derby and Preakness victories, will be aboard another Windfields Farm entry Saturday in the $38,640-added Canadian Oaks Stakes at the Toronto Woodbine race track.

Fourteen of the finest fillies in Canada will strut to the post for this outstanding race of the season for three-year-olds over the distance of one mile and one furlong. The winner's share of the purse will be $26,140.

Hartack will ride E. P. Taylor's Netfella and although she hasn't been racing well, racing experts figure he could improve her enough to win.

TRACK HIS LIFE

"Everybody in the track business knows and likes Hylke," the official said. "He doesn't mean any harm. Track is his life because he loves it. He's a good-natured guy and an emotional type and I'm told on good authority that they egged him on when his cause came up. Maybe he blew his top a bit, and no one should blame him for that."

The official said that Hylke applied for permission to compete in the meet 13 days before they hadn't attended that track and field is on the move in Canada but "some of the old rot still lingers."

There is nothing on record to show that any of these were even reprimanded. And they weren't asked to come forward and prove their charges.

One of Hylke's comments to

AAU officials was that they were "inept."

Maybe he has something there.

After the 1958 British Empire Games at Cardiff three track athletes publicly accused officials of "inefficiency, poor management, improper coaching and training methods." Their charges were dismissed as "sour grapes."

Then, a year ago, another track and field athlete had some uncomplimentary things to say in a national magazine about track officials. Among other things he said that he had seen cheating on record forms, judges "witnessing" events and that he had seen officials "cheating" on record forms.

VANCOUVER (UPI) — The Columbia Lions, Herb Capozzi, general manager of the British said here Wednesday his club has been discussing the possibility of moving to a proposed 40,000-seat stadium in nearby Burnaby, with an unnamed group.

Capozzi said a 40,000-seat stadium was in line with the needs of the Vancouver area.

He said the Lions were happy

Track Star Races Here On Saturday

Yvonne Breedon, Canadian record holder for the juvenile girls' 100 and 200 yards, will compete in the annual YMCA track and field meet at Victoria High School Saturday.

Entries are trickling in from the mainland and officials already expect about 60 local athletes.

The meet starts at 12:30 p.m.

with their current arrangement at Empire Stadium, but they would listen to anyone who aspired to a larger stadium.

Empire Stadium has a seating capacity of more than 32,000 and is under contract to the Lions until the end of 1965.

Capozzi refused to name the group he was negotiating with or expand on his comments.

It had been reported that the stadium would be built on the same property as the new Simon Fraser University. Another report had the stadium with a roll-back roller.

Burnaby Reeve Alan Emmott, who was also trying to get a proposed ice palace located in his municipality, said he was not surprised on hearing of the talks.

"We're not trying to steal anything, but if the present Lions' facilities suffer from physical restrictions, we'd be happy to accommodate them in Burnaby," he said.

Port Angeles Shots Here For Traps

Two teams from the Port Angeles Gun Club will be hosted by the Victoria Gun Club Sunday in the annual trap-shooting competition for the International Trophy, won last year by the visitors.

The trophy will be shot for by the three five-man teams on the basis of overall scores at 16-yard targets, doubles and handicap. Four smaller trophies will go to individual winners for high scores at 16 yards, doubles, handicap and high over-all.

Both skeet and trap fields will be open for all shooters at 10 a.m. Refreshments will be available for lunch on the grounds.

South Africa Color Bar Finally Ends

JOHANNESBURG (AP)—Two Negroes were named to a South African athletic team Saturday, the first time the color line has been broken in this country.

Humphrey Nkosi, holder of the South African 800-yard record, and middle distance runner Benji Malaki were listed on an 11-man South Africa team scheduled to tour Europe next month.

The two Negro runners replace a pair of whites who were provisional nominations for the team some time ago.

South African sports administrators have been warned they must show some practical application of breaking down the government policy of apartheid before they can be considered for invitations to the Olympic Games in Tokyo this year.

Eagle Soars to Victory

OYSTER BAY, N.Y. (AP) —

The first round in a series of America's Cup defender belongs to American Eagle, a brand new 12-metre yacht owned by the Aurora Syndicate.

Eagle, with Bill Cox of Darien, Conn., at the helm, left Constellation in her wake Wednesday as the two 1964-built contenders met for the first time in formal competition. The easy victory left Eagle with the lone perfect record after two days of sailing in the four-boat series.

Columbia, the 1958 cup defender, and Neferitti, runner-up, made a late bid to overtake Eagle on the final leg of a 15-mile triangular course. But Cox countered Ridder's series of short tacks and put additional distance between the boats.

"slow" gin:

What it is, and what it isn't.

"Slow" gin is a London Dry Gin—not a Sloe Gin. Most unlike Sloe Gin—which is flavoured with sloe instead of juniper berries—our "slow" gin is very, very dry.
Its listed name is Burnett's Sterling.
We call it "slow" because we make it slowly.
Most gins on the market are mass-produced. They run from modern, mammoth stills in oceans. But our Sterling is distilled in small, unhurried batches.
What limits the amount—and sets the pace—is our little old copper Pot Still.
The one you see on the right is more than 100 years old. We brought it from England in the 1920s—when we imported Burnett's complete distillery.

By today's standards, our old Pot Still is miniatures—and slowpokes. But the men who mind them know them as a good cook knows her seasoned pots and pans.
Watching, sipping, tasting, they let Sterling take its time. They believe that nothing excellent was ever turned out in a hurry.
We'd save money, of course, by switching to mass-producing equipment. But our Sterling Gin would cease to be a "slow" gin.
And it wouldn't taste the same.

An annual scholarship of $1,000 has been established by Sooke Forest Products for Edward Milne Secondary School in Sooke school district 62.

Hershel Smith, president of the firm, said there is no scholarship available for Edward Milne students and he felt it was fitting that his firm, the largest in that area, should establish one.

The money will go for performance and effort and not necessarily high marks. It may also be divided between more than one student according to need and circumstances.

The recipient however must graduate from secondary school and be going on to university or vocational school.

Selection will be based partly on examination marks and the selection will be made late in the summer.

Courtroom Parade Youth Convicted Of Burgling Suite

A 19-year-old West Vancouver youth, caught near a city motel after a suite had been burgled, will be sentenced June 15 on a charge of theft.

Peter Wallace was found guilty yesterday of stealing $130 from a suite early June 7 while the guest, a Detroit woman, was out of the room.

Court was told Wallace—who pleaded not guilty—was spoken to by police on the grounds of the Crest Motel and at first gave a false identity. He was seen trying to hide papers on his person which came from the victim's wallet.

A second charge of possession of stolen goods was dismissed by Magistrate William Ooster.

He remanded Wallace pending reports by a probation officer and a psychiatrist. He was remanded in custody.

A shoplifter was jailed for two months and another fined $75 yesterday for separate offences. Ernest J. Thomas, 350 Colto, admitted entering a city department store and taking tools, a pair of trousers and a pair of shoes and leaving the store without paying.

He was apprehended by a store detective. Magistrate Ooster fined the youth — a university student — $75, and gave him a month to pay. He advised Thomas to "get a job and pay this yourself," rather than having his parents pay.

Vernon Mason of Vancouver was sentenced to two months in jail in view of an extensive criminal record after he pleaded guilty to shoplifting four shirts from another store.

Court was told by a store detective he was observed walking in the store "in an unsteady manner" June 10, and was seen to hide the shirts under his coat.

He blamed his current and past difficulties on his alcoholism and drug addiction respectively.

"Sarcastic" remarks about the police department made in a loud voice brought a $30 fine and a severe reprimand yesterday for a Victoria youth.

City Const. Bud Currie told court he had entered Mac's Coffee shop about 5 a.m. yesterday and had been the target for abuse by Lawrence Lawton, 1215 Pandora.

Const. Currie said while speaking to Lawson outside the cafe, he had been called a vulgar name, and in a loud voice. This resulted in a charge of creating a disturbance by shouting.

Magistrate Ooster called the youth's behavior "very shabby."

A "one-armed driver" was told yesterday there was a time and place for everything and was fined $15 for permitting a passenger to interfere with his driving.

Norman Foster, 1340 Coventry, was checked by police on Yates earlier this week and found to be driving with his left hand only, the other arm being around a female companion.

He was also shifting gears on his Model A with his left hand, when necessary, court was told.

Stranded But Safe

DUNCAN — Two missing fishermen, Robert Cleough, of Victoria, and Danny Adams, were found stranded but safe on Idol Island about 6:30 a.m. Thursday.

Mr. Cleough, who is staying with his wife at a Duncan motel, left Crofton Wednesday with Mr. Adams in an outboard motor-powered boat to fish. When they did not return early yesterday, Mrs. Cleough notified Duncan police.

Loggers, Office Staff Face Layoff Notices

PORT ALBERNI—About 1,000 men at the Sproat Lake and Franklin River operations of MacMillan, Bloedel and Powell River Limited may be laid off within a few days, a company spokesman said yesterday.

The men are employed in logging camps which supply the four MB and PR plants here with timber for processing.

They will soon not be needed because of the closure involving a strike by 60 office workers and an additional 3,500 workers refusing to cross picket lines.

"It is obviously only a matter of time before these operations must close," said the company spokesman.

The company is also expected to ask an additional 250 to 300 supervisory personnel at the plants not to report to work next week, although these people will remain on salary.

Man Asks Heavier Fine To Fit Certified Cheque

HALIFAX—Carlyle Norwood asked for an increase in his fine in police court Thursday.

Norwood was fined for allowing an overweight truck on the highway.

The court calculated the fine—$32.75—on the number of pounds above the permitted axle weight.

Norwood had done some calculating, too.

"Can't you make it $32.25?" he asked Magistrate R. E. Inglis. "I've got a certified cheque here for that amount."

The magistrate agreed.

Historic Honor For Island Man

DUNCAN — A former Duncan resident, Dr. Conrad Swan, will lead the annual garter procession at Windsor Castle—marking the first time in the 616-year history of Europe's oldest order of chivalry that a Canadian has led the procession.

The Order of the Garter is considered perhaps the world's most ancient order of chivalry.

It was founded in August, 1348, by Edward III, just after he had assumed the title King of France.

This year's garter ceremony takes place Monday outside Windsor Castle and at neighboring St. George's Chapel, burial place of British kings.

Dr. Swan, who holds the title of Rouge Dragon Pursuivant of Arms, will lead the procession because the honor falls by tradition on the most recently appointed officer.

Born on Vancouver Island 39 years ago, he left here at the age of 13 to go to a private school in Weybridge, Surrey. He later took degrees at Assumption University in Windsor, Ont., and at the University of Western Ontario, in London, Ont. He lectured at Assumption from 1956 to 1959.

Dr. Swan now lives at Boxford, Suffolk, with his English wife, Lady Hilda, and their four young children ranging from four months to 4½ years.

The job of Rouge Dragon was bestowed on Dr. Swan about a year ago. He is an apprentice herald and it is a full-time job. Leading the procession of heralds, knights and the Queen, who is the sovereign of the order, Dr. Swan will wear red jacket, black breeches and a coat of rich velvet, along with a Tudor cap of velvet embroidered with the royal badge of the rose.

Groos for Leaves

The three red maple leaves on the Pearson flag is the symbol adopted by the Queen to signify Canada on her Royal Standard some years ago, says Victoria MP David W. Groos.

That's one of the reasons why he is in favor of the flag which has caused so much controversy. Mr. Groos also intends to vote for the government resolution which calls for establishing O Canada as the national anthem and God Save The Queen as the royal anthem.

Li-Col. M. W. E. Allen said he will try to persuade trustees of Canadian Scottish Regiment (Princess Mary's) to adopt June 6 as the official regimental day.

This would commemorate both participation in the invasion of Normandy and the freedom of the city of Victoria conferred on the 20th anniversary of D-Day in Bastion Square ceremonies, the commanding officer said in a letter of thanks read at yesterday's city council meeting.

The city's advisory planning commission said yesterday it must have more time to examine all aspects of an application to develop Spencer Castle and its lovely alpine gardens as a tourist attraction.

Former alderman R. P. Macmillan, spokesman for the development company, had asked for quick action on the requested rezoning because it is planned to open the doors of the castle to visitors this season.

Furor which arose last year over late arrival of textbooks isn't likely to be repeated this year, said John Gough, school superintendent for Greater Victoria School District.

Handwriting Expert Dies at 59

Funeral services will be held at 10:30 a.m. Saturday in Sands Chapel for Henry Walter Hamlet, well-known Victoria handwriting expert who died Wednesday at his home 1145 View Street. He was 59.

For many years a taxi driver and dispatcher for a Victoria firm, Mr. Hamlet was president of the B.C. chapter of the Grapho-analysis Society.

Born in England, he had lived in B.C. for the past 30 years. Mr. Hamlet's art was in analyzing people's handwriting and reading character in handwriting, a hobby he had followed since 1937.

In 1957 he offered to help occupy the mind of a convicted murderer as the condemned man awaited sentence in B.C. penitentiary.

He is survived by a brother, Harold, and a sister in England.

New Home Recipe Reducing Plan

It's simple how quickly one may lose pounds of unsightly fat right in your own home. Make this home recipe yourself. It's easy, no trouble at all and costs little. Just go to your drug store and ask for four ounces of Naran Concentrate. Pour this into a pint bottle and add enough grapefruit juice to fill the bottle. Take two tablespoons full a day as needed and follow the Naran Plan.

It's simple how quickly one may lose bulky fat and help regain slender more graceful curves; if reducible pounds and inches of excess fat don't disappear from neck, chin, arms, abdomen, hips, calves and ankles just return the empty bottle for your money back. Follow this easy way endorsed by many who have tried this plan and help bring back alluring curves and graceful slenderness. Note how quickly stout disappears—how much better you feel. More alive, youthful appearing and active.

Liquor Store Move Unconfirmed

Attorney-General Robert Bonner last night said he was unable to confirm reports that a liquor store would be included in a $200,000 plan to renovate the former Government Street Mc & Mc hardware building.

Reports said the provincial government plans to move its Johnson Street store to bigger quarters in a building bounded by Johnson and Cormorant. Architects are at work redesigning the interior of the building to house a number of stores at ground level and offices on the remaining three floors.

A number of older buildings at the rear are to be demolished. But last night, Mr. Bonner, who announced recently that the Johnson Street liquor store would be moved because of access difficulties and overcrowding, said he could not confirm the new site.

"I have no information as to whether the liquor commission has made any decision," he said. It is believed, however, that Mc & Mc has an agreement with the Liquor Control Board for leasing part of its building.

'Egocentric'

Critics Roast Beaver

LONDON (CP)—Lord Beaverbrook was shamelessly egocentric, almost totally irresponsible and advocated political policies which were "irrelevant rubbish," the left-wing New Statesman says.

The weekly says although Lord Beaverbrook, Canadian-born millionaire publisher who died Tuesday, had two periods of greatness in the two world wars, nevertheless his is a "record of unsurpassed fatuity."

'PUBLIC ENTERTAINER'

As a newspaper man, he was "successful," says the New Statesman, but his Daily Express and Evening Standard were not influential and he held the "status of a great public entertainer."

"It is much to the credit of the public which relished the entertainment of his newspapers that their central political message was ignored for the irrelevant rubbish it was." This refers to Lord Beaverbrook's advocacy of an Empire and Commonwealth customs union.

OXFORD, England (Reuters)—An uproar broke out Thursday night at the Oxford Union, the university's debating society, following a speaker's remark that the influence of the late Lord Beaverbrook had been "evil and despicable."

Viet Nam

Cash Reward Offered For Marines

SAIGON, Viet Nam (UPI)—The South Vietnamese government Thursday offered rewards for the return of two U.S. marines missing since Sunday and believed captured by Viet Cong Communist guerrillas.

Pamphlets offering 100,000 piasters (about $1,660) for either man were showered over Danang region in Central Viet Nam by planes.

ALSO OFFERED

Generous rewards for information leading to the rescue of the captured Americans also were offered by the commander of the Vietnamese 1st Army Corps.

An extensive air search by American helicopters and light planes was called off yesterday but ground forces continued to hunt for the men.

NOW NINE

A U.S. military spokesman said intelligence reports indicated the two marines, who have not been identified, were captured by the Communist guerrillas. It brought the number of Americans in Communist captivity to nine.

Fallout Curb Described

HALIFAX (CP) — A method whereby food contaminated by atomic fallout and radioactivity may be eaten without harmful effect was described Thursday at a meeting of the Canadian Federation of Biological Sciences.

ACTIVE WORK

Dr. Deirdre Edward, research associate at McGill University's gastro-intestinal research laboratory, and Dr. T. M. Paul, both of whom are working actively on the project, reported to the conference how experiments at the laboratory demonstrated how the absorption of radioactive strontium in contaminated food can be selectively repressed in the body.

DR. EDWARD

Dr. Edward said: "Although the danger of fallout from fission tests has abated, the importance of preventing the absorption of radioactive products from the inadvertent release of materials in industrial atomic plants or from previous atomic explosions is still apparent."

FIRST REPORT

Dr. Stanley C. Skoryna, director of the gastro-intestinal research laboratory, gave a first report of the experiments to the International Congress of Gastroenterology in Brussels on June 2.

The material which acts as a suppressant of the dangerous strontium is sodium alginate, a compound derived from kelp—a brown seaweed which is in abundant supply on the Nova Scotia coast and in other parts of the world.

Between Puffing Aldermen, Smoke Debate Billows

port complaints by merchants against flyash, and was told to take steps to eliminate black smoke from Mayfair's own burner. Union spokesman Robert Earl, third from left, told council both operators and millworkers are doing all they can to lick the problem. Sam Mottishaw, fourth from left, said tests confirm more fallout on Mayfair but measures proposed by mills will bring about an improvement in next few months. Harold Gregson, second from right, a week ago resigned from air pollution advisory board which he helped found, because council would not take action against offending mills. He listened attentively to yesterday's debate but didn't speak.—(Jim Ryan photos)

Beach Bought for Park

Everyone Is Happy About Island View

Mayor R. B. Wilson yesterday expressed delight at the provincial government's action in purchasing part of Island View Beach for a park.

The popular park will be offered to municipalities to operate under a regional parks commission, an idea proposed by Recreation Minister Kenneth Kiernan in the legislature last March.

"This is most encouraging," Mayor Wilson told the Colonist yesterday. "This is the type of regional park we badly need in this area."

The speed with which the government has acted augurs well for the scheme put forward by the Greater Victoria municipalities.

Mayor Wilson's feelings were seconded by Oak Bay Reeve Allan Cox and Saanich Reeve Stanley Murphy.

"It's a gigantic step forward," said Reeve Murphy. "All of us know the goal, but we must have provincial government leadership and financial support.

"Our area-wide meeting June 20 should begin a new era for our children."

"We can thank Mayor Wilson for this particular one," said Reeve Cox. "Although we (the municipalities) have all been working on getting the provincial government to assist us in having parks set aside."

At present the beach, between Victoria and Sidney, will be designated as a provincial park. The 62-acre site, including 2,160 feet of waterfrontage, was purchased by the government for $62,000 from the Barrett Montford estate.

WEDGED BETWEEN

The property is wedged between an Indian Reserve and a small private holding about half a mile from Telegraph Road, about 12 miles from Victoria.

Mr. Kiernan said the recreation department will build a new access road to the park. At present access is gained along a trail on the beach from the end of Telegraph Road.

FIRST STEP

Mr. Kiernan also said the new park could be the first major step towards his plan for a regional parks commission.

He has already held talks with municipal officials from Greater Victoria and the Saanich Peninsula, but no public commitments have been made.

Under his scheme, the provincial government would help acquire parkland for the municipalities.

COSTS SHARED

Under the system, costs would be shared equally.

A parks branch official said the offer of Island View Park is an inducement to encourage the municipalities to enter into such an agreement and to form a commission to operate local parks.

Present plans of the parks branch are to make Island View a park similar to Bamberton, on the Trans-Canada Highway.

Previous to the government's purchase of the land, it was in danger of being bought up for a subdivision.

Students Suspended After Gangs Gather

Fifteen high school students have been suspended and at least one charge of creating a disturbance has been laid as the result of a gang gathering in the Burnside-Tilloum area yesterday.

Saanich police moved in quickly to avoid trouble when students from Esquimalt Junior High School and Colquitz Junior High School gathered shortly after noon.

Between 50 and 75 students were milling around when police arrived but they were quickly dispersed.

The youths were between 14 and 16 years of age.

A school board official said last night the suspensions will probably last for one week but added the period of suspension was not yet definite.

"The parents of the students are to be notified and we will be receiving a report in the morning," the official said last night.

Dress Rehearsal

Silver Threads Service and all old age pensioners organizations have been invited to the dress rehearsal of the Jerry Gossley Smile Show at 8:30 p.m. June 26, at Oak Bay Junior High School.

One farmer complained that zoning restrictions could increase the value of one piece of land while devaluing another.

"People who benefit by zoning should be taxed to compensate for it," he said.

Mr. Brown said the main problem is the rapid change from a rural to an urban community, which is always a source of trouble and conflict.

LOOK AHEAD

"The only answer is to look ahead," said Mr. Brown. "We must plan carefully in conjunction with municipal councils in order to bring about the cheapest methods of realizing our plans."

"We need good subdivision design in order to incur minimum costs in the change from rural to urban living," he said.

They continue until the end of June and the last few days of the month will be taken up with exams set by the school.

Some Grade 11's are taking departmental exams as well as school exams, starting, Monday.

School ends today for recommended students in Grades 11 and 12 who don't take exams but it goes on for other grades in elementary and secondary schools.

Melhus-Anderson

Banff Honeymoon

Baskets of yellow gladioli were at the altar of First United Church when Rev. C. R. McGilivray heard vows exchanged between Anne Marie Anderson and Albert Victor Melhus. Mrs. Heather Tucker sang the "Lord's Prayer" during the ceremony and, during the signing of the register, "Wedding Prayer."

Parents of the newlyweds are Mr. and Mrs. Andrew Anderson of Lake Cowichan and Mr. and Mrs. Rudolf Melhus, 508 Victoria Avenue. The bride was given in marriage by her father.

She wore a floor-length gown of nylon tulle over taffeta. Skirt and lace bodice that featured lily point sleeves were highlighted by seed pearls. Re-embroidered Alencon lace appliques gave a delicate scalloped effect to the scoop neckline. A bouffant tiered veil of nylon tulle misted from a teardrop pearl crown in leaf design. Red roses, stephanotis and ivy formed her crescent bouquet.

Ballerina-length gowns of deep aqua peau de sole enhanced with self-fabric roses at the waist were the choice of bride's attendants. Maid of honor was Miss Marlene Branting, bridesmaids Miss Pat Willison and Miss Susanne McQuarrie, niece of the bride, and flower girls Shelley Scott and Candy MacQuarrie, both nieces of the bride. Maid of honor carried yellow rose bouquet, and other attendants, bouquets of yellow anemone chrysanthemums.

Best man was Rod Holker, Keith Tucker and Gary Anderson, brother of the bride, ushered guests to their pews.

Three-tier wedding cake and pink roses centred the bridal table, and floral arrangements decorated guest tables at the reception held in Holyrood

Proceeds To Furnish Lounge

Sum of $110 was realized when the Major John Hedden Gillespie Chapter, IOOE, held a coffee party in the Uplands Road home of Mr. and Mrs. Keith Dorman, Wednesday morning. Greeting guests was regent, Mrs. A. J. T. Laundry and the hostess.

Presiding at the refreshment table were Mrs. A. H. C. Phipps, Mrs. Jack Noble, Mrs. Leslie Peterson and Mrs. Elsie Lowthian, municipal regent. Table was centred with an attractive arrangement of snapdragons, peonies and pyrethrums in shades of pink and yellow.

General convener was Mrs. D. A. Smith. Mrs. C. R. Stein convened a stall featuring novel clothes hangers.

Proceeds are earmarked for fund to furnish a lounge in the new dormitory of the University of Victoria. Fund is in memory of the late Mrs. J. H. Gillespie, after whom the chapter is named.

Mr. and Mrs. K. G. Matthews of London, England, announce forthcoming marriage of their eldest daughter, Geraldine Ann, to Mr. Gary Wayne Smele, only son of Mr. and Mrs. Frederick Smele, 1852 Chestnut Street. Wedding will take place on Saturday, June 27, at Christ Church Cathedral with Very Rev. Brian Whitlow officiating.

WOMAN'S BENEFIT

Woman's Benefit Association Review No. 1 will meet Monday, June 15, at 7:45 p.m. in the Orange Hall on Courtney Street for a social evening.

ANN LANDERS

Dear Ann Landers: I made up my mind if it happened one more time I would write to you. Well, it did. I received a birthday card from a friend, signed "Best wishes from Gertrude and Madame Du Barry." Madame Du Barry is her dog.

This woman always signs her dog's name on everything and I resent it. I don't want best wishes from a dog.

Every Christmas I receive about ten or twelve cards with pictures of dogs and cats who are sitting right there with the family. "Fido, Snowflake, King and Champ" are treated as if they were children. When we get a card from a certain friend, my husband says, "I didn't realize the Browns had five girls." I told him they didn't. He said, "You're wrong, here are their names..." They suddenly he discovered Ruth and Marie were a couple of Siamese cats.

Will you put something in your column and end, once and for all, this ridiculous practice? DANDER UP

Dear Dander: Many people consider their pets part of the family. It's amazing how many people who are perfectly well balanced in other respects go a little haywire when it comes to their pets. Accept it because you can't change it.

Dear Ann Landers: I'm a 16-year-old girl who moved to this rather large city from a small town in Nebraska.

I became friendly with two girls who are also high school sophomores. Last Saturday afternoon we three went to the movies together. I was quite surprised when these girls seemed a lot more interested in meeting fellows than in watching the picture. They started up conversations with different groups of boys. One of the girls accepted a ride home with a boy she never had seen before.

When I told the other girl that I thought this was cheap, she said I was crazy—that it's fun to get acquainted with kids from other schools, and that a theatre movie is the best place to meet. She called me "small-townish" and said where I came from everybody knows each other, but in a large city it's the only way to make new friends.

Is she right?—NOT SURE

Dear Not Sure: Girls who

Dear Dear: The invitation was sent because they wanted your presence—not your presents. Obviously they consider you friends.

A wedding gift is a token of friendship, not payment for what you eat and drink. Send a gift.

You need some girl friends whose ideas are more like the ones you brought from Nebraska.

Dear Ann Landers: My husband and I have been invited to a wedding. The daughter of a long-time friend is being married. We will be out of the city on the day of the wedding and will not be able to attend.

My husband insists that we are not obligated to send a gift since we will not be at the ceremony. It seems to me that the mannerly thing to do is send a gift regardless.

Will you please settle this? I am getting fed up arguing and we have gotten nowhere. Your word will be the last one.—DEAF ALREADY

Curator Says

Funds Helped

"The funds you gave us in 1953-54 helped start us on our permanent collection which is still growing at a healthy rate," Mr. Colin Graham, curator at Victoria Art Gallery, told the Women's Committee at its annual dinner meeting in the gallery Wednesday evening.

Mr. Graham, in congratulating the committee on the success of the year's work, said he was surprised and pleased that "the group's activities are definitely in the visual arts field."

The annual ball, a fashion show, picture loans, sale of silk screenings and the house tour were among the fund-raising projects carried out by the committee during the year.

The annual house tour was earmarked as the major project and Mrs. Peter Banks reported this year's tour of four houses was attended by over 400 people with more than $600 being realized.

Another special guest, Mr. Brian Tobin, president of the board of directors, also expressed his appreciation and gratitude to the group on the success of the year's work and donations made to the board.

Other honored guests were Miss Sara Spencer, Dr. G. V. Downes, Mrs. H. Hale and Mrs. H. Turner. They were introduced and welcomed by Mrs. W. Fahey, retiring president.

In her president's report, Mrs. Fahey thanked the officers and welcomed incoming president, Mrs. H. B. Bokua.

Horse Not Lit

MIDDLEFIELD, Conn. (AP) — A 67-year-old man was arrested Wednesday night for riding an animal without lights.

It's a law going back to the horse-and-buggy days and police can't recall when the charge was last placed.

Earl Towhary was riding an unlighted horse.

Walter Seifert

'Hitler' Fire-Sprays Children

COLOGNE, Germany (UPI) — A man screaming "I am Adolf Hitler the Second" burst into a village schoolyard yesterday, speared two teachers to death and burned another teacher and 28 children in a cruel rampage with a home-made flame-thrower.

His indiscriminate attack was finally halted by police who cut him down with gunfire after he swallowed a dose of insect poison. He died later in a hospital.

Several of his elementary school victims were reported in critical condition.

Police identified the man as Walter Seifert, 42, a lethe operator with a long-standing grudge against city health authorities for refusing to grant him a disability pension for an inactive tubercular tumor.

Police said he gasped after his capture: "A doctor in the city health office wanted to kill me, and so I decided to get my revenge."

"He came screaming that he was Adolf Hitler the Second and he was going to get us," said Sigmund Gehrman, 14, one of the pupils at the Roman Catholic elementary school in the nearby village of Volkshoven. "Our teachers tried to stop him, but they couldn't."

Seifert's mad raid was carefully planned. His spear was fashioned from a heavy, triangular bayonet sunk into one end of a thick, four-foot pole. The joint had been glued and securely bound in stout cord. The entire spear was shackled.

He fashioned the flame-thrower out of a five-gallon fire extinguisher filled with fuel, affixing an ignition device on the nozzle and powering it with a pump plunger.

Seifert parked his bicycle, walked through the gate in the steel fence around the school and carefully jammed it shut.

Seifert strode across the schoolyard to the first of its five pre-fabricated one-storey buildings, poked his flame-thrower through an open transom window and raked the ceiling with fire.

The ceiling was immediately engulfed in flame. Places of ceiling and excess fuel fell on the children. They poured out into the yard, many of them with their clothing on fire.

"Everything happened so fast," one monitor recalled later. "Suddenly the whole building was on fire from one end to the other."

Asking Too Much Simon Fraser Told

VANCOUVER (CP)—Dr. Walter Hardwick, a University of B.C. professor, said yesterday the new Simon Fraser University is seeking more than twice the money it needs to get started.

He told the Vancouver Board of Trade that SFU is seeking funds totalling $36,000,000 when according to calculations it needs only $15,000,000 to house the number of students expected by 1971.

Dr. Hardwick, who worked on the MacDonald Report on Higher Education where SFU's needs were outlined, said: "If I were a board of trade member concerned with the cost of higher education I would ask the Simon Fraser board of governors a few questions."

"According to calculations the university will have an enrolment of 7,500 by 1971. Building and equipment costs roughly $2,000 per student. 'Isn't that $15,000,000 and not $36,000,000?' 'Or is the government expecting the public to put up capital for the university while it contributes only to its operation?"

Russia Joins U.S. In Space Network

They said Moscow has now firmly accepted an invitation to participate in the network, to be set up and run by the United States Communications Satellite Corporation.

Big Game Hunting Opened Up

OTTAWA (CP)—The Northwest Territories council, sitting in committee, Thursday approved legislation which will permit more big game hunting in the territories, particularly in the Mackenzie district.

Council authorized Commissioner B. G. Sivertz to open a hunting area in the Mackenzie mountains.

Hunters will be allowed to take one adult male moose, caribou, sheep, mountain goat and bear during the hunting season which extends from Aug. 1 to Nov. 30. Non-resident hunters must be accompanied by a guide.

Establishment of smaller game zones in the territories was approved by the nine-member council.

Council also provided for an increase up to seven of the number of trustees for the various territorial school boards and agreed to an amendment to the school ordinance which would provide that meetings of school boards be open to the public.

Parents Hinder Deaf Babies

VANCOUVER (CP)—A Vancouver doctor said Thursday the reluctance of parents of deaf babies to acknowledge the fact is one of the main handicaps in the vital early diagnosis of deafness.

Dr. Geoffrey Robinson, director of pediatrics at the Vancouver General Hospital's child health centre, was speaking at a symposium on the hearing-handicapped child at the opening of the Canadian Otolaryngological Society's annual convention.

Dr. Kenneth Cambron, head of the centre's hearing clinic, rebuked doctors for the "pat on the head syndrome."

Strict Rules May Soften Water Plan Opposition

Stringent building regulations in the Prospect Lake area will lessen opposition of area residents to municipal water, says a Prospect Lake community leader.

Gordon A. C. Denford, president of the Prospect Lake Community Association, said last night certain Lake residents recently urged council to adopt immediately stringent regulations on construction of new buildings and on existing septic tanks.

"It was felt that when Saanich council adopts these building restrictions the residents would be more favorably disposed to the installation of a domestic water supply."

A recent local improvement petition which would have brought municipal water to lake residents failed when only a handful of lake ratepayers signed it.

Mr. Denford said the petition "did not receive support because residents had been informed by the Saanich engineer (Neville Life) that this would only increase contamination of

Ex-Mayor Dies In Nelson

NELSON (CP) — Richard Dickson Barnes, 79, former president and general manager of Interior Breweries Limited, died here Sunday.

Mr. Barnes had served a three-year term as mayor and was made a freeman of the city during Nelson's golden jubilee celebrations. His wife died in 1962.

the lake unless stringent corrective measures were imposed on existing septic tank installations."

The statement repeats the association's stand that it has "proven without a doubt that the Hartland Road garbage dump is a contributing factor in the pollution of Prospect Lake."

The association has "no faith" in a statement by Greater Victoria metropolitan health officer Dr. J. L. M. Whitbread that the dump does not present a health hazard to lake residents.

"He originally stated that no drainage existed from the dump to the lake system and he was proven wrong. He later stated that engineering reports submitted by the association and by a government engineer were 'contradictory' and he was proven wrong again."

Broken Water Main Cuts Telephone Lines

B.C. Telephone crews last night completed repairs on faulty lines which had thrown hundreds of phones out of service most of the afternoon. Service was interrupted when a broken water main on Government Street spewed water through several feet of telephone company ductwork, containing cables for the James Bay district.

Koerner, Rotary

Fund for Students Swelled by Grants

Alma Mater funds set aside for bringing foreign students to University of Victoria have been swelled with the receipt of two grants.

According to society president Mrs. Olivia Barr, the student organization will set aside $1 per capita from fees which should provide $2,600.

ANOTHER $300

The Koerner Foundation has given the society $1,000 and Rotary International another $350.

It will cost $4,300 to keep four students at the university for eight months and provide tuition fees, room, board, medical insurance, AMS fees and spending money.

Last year two Japanese students were guests of the society and in the coming year it is hoped that two more Japanese students and two from Commonwealth countries will be brought here.

Children's Village Planned

Plans for an international village in which 11-year-old children will live together for a time, will be made at a seminar sponsored by the International Co-operation Year Committee of Victoria, June 20.

Dr. Brock Chisholm will speak at the seminar and films of children's villages in other parts of the world will be shown.

The village planned for lower Vancouver Island would be the first of its kind on the Pacific Coast. Only other one in Canada is in Kitchener, Ont.

Chairman of the seminar, Rev. W. L. Dalton, said the idea is to have the children live together and learn something of each other's language, customs and culture.

While Islanders are attending and enjoying the Shrine Circus here next week, their dollars will already be on the way to medical centres to help treat handicapped children.

The big show moves into Memorial Arena June 18 and 19 for two performances with 30 different acts lined up for the two-hour shows.

The circus operators, Rudy Bros., this year are featuring several new acts, not seen in previous Victoria appearances, say Shriners, sponsors of the event.

'REAL MEAN'
The wild animal act, always a crowd-pleaser, this year features "a real mean tiger," says Capt. William Horne, animal specialist with Rudy Bros.

Of this and the seven other wild jungle species, Capt. Horne, says: "I know I am their boss and they respect me—but they are always wild animals at heart and that will never change."

Another animal act, "Beauty and the Beast," will also highlight the show here, when famous horseman Trevor Dale and his daughters present their Palominos in all three rings.

TONS OF FUN
Capt. Eugene Scott and his elephants, recently returned from a Mexican tour, will be on hand both days to do, among other things, the Twist. "Fun by the ton," Capt. Scott says of his act. He says in addition to rehearsed stunts, the beasts are forever playing practical jokes on one another (elephant jokes?) and are constantly surprising him.

Airborne acts are also scheduled, with the noted Triaka Troupe on hand performing on the high wire without a net.

VETERAN
Originally from Czechoslovakia, the star of the group, Metez Triaka, is a sixth generation circus man.

At the age of four, he rode a bicycle—with his sister on his shoulders—across the high wire.

Last year the Shriners raised $3,500 from the Victoria appearance of the show, $1,500 of which was given to the Queen Alexandra Solarium.

Much of the Gizeh Temple (B.C.) Shrine profits from such shows are used locally, with the remainder going to central hospitals for crippled children, including one in Winnipeg and one in Montreal.

Last year, 36 children from the island were treated at other shrine-operated hospitals in Spokane and Portland as well.

70 Safe on Divided Road

A proposal to boost the speed limit to 70 miles an hour on B.C. freeways has met with approval from Cmdr. J. M. Leeming, of the Victoria branch of the British Columbia Automobile Association.

Highways minister P. A. Gagliardi said yesterday he is awaiting a recommendation from his departmental traffic experts on higher speed limits for three B.C. freeways, on which the limit is now 65 miles an hour.

NEAR CHILLIWACK
The roads affected would be 80 miles of Trans-Canada Highway from Cheam, near Chilliwack, to Vancouver, and the Deas Throughway, which runs to Douglas at the U.S. border and is a connecting link for the Tsawwassen-Swartz Bay ferry service between Victoria and Vancouver.

"If these highways are designed and engineered for 70 miles an hour," said Cmdr. Leeming, "then I see no reason why we should not get up to it."

NO INTERSECTIONS
"These are divided highways and have no intersections, so I think 70 would be a safe speed on them."

Cmdr. Leeming warned, however, that drivers must learn to drive at today's higher speeds. "It is getting to the point where people learning to drive should be taught by qualified driving schools," he said.

"When you are taught by a friend or a member of your family you too often learn their bad habits."

NO CHANGE

Cmdr. Leeming agreed with Mr. Gagliardi that no change should be contemplated for highways where the present speed is 60 miles an hour.

"The Patricia Bay Highway is a good example of this," said Cmdr. Leeming. "Many parts of it should not have a 60 limit. This is much too fast when you consider there are accesses everywhere along it, and it is not a divided highway."

"It makes for a touchy situation at higher speeds."

Mr. Gagliardi is expected to announce the speed boost at the official opening of the new Port Mann Freeway and bridge today.

Canadian Dies

SANDPOINT, Idaho (AP) — One Canadian was killed and another seriously injured when their car ran off U.S. Highway 95 three miles north of here and plunged over an embankment into a field. Idaho state police said the dead man was Peter Chiste, 68, of Vancouver, B.C.

Fraser Valley Puddles Grow

By AP, UPI

While Montana and Alberta, shaking off shock and fatigue, are starting clean-up operations on areas from which flood waters have subsided, torrents rushed over highways and two railways in Northern British Columbia yesterday to turn the lower Fraser Valley into a big puddle.

The Nechako and Fraser Rivers at north-central Prince George were reported rising at a slowed pace but Cottonwood Island at the confluence of the rivers was all but inundated.

Some 200 of the island's 700 residents on the outskirts of Prince George, hung on in fear of looters as window-high water carried debris through windows and open front doors of abandoned homes.

The raging Skeena River, bolstered by high tides, flooded its banks and submerged the Canadian National Railway line to Prince Rupert under three feet of water.

CNR officials in Vancouver said crews were working to get the line open.

The same river cut the north-

See End to Problem Says Mayor Wilson

'BEEHIVES' MUST GO

By IAN STREET

City council yesterday initiated action that will lead to banning of beehive waste burners—major source of air pollution—but decided to give operators until May 15, 1965, to comply.

Mayor R. B. Wilson told yesterday's council meeting that after private talks with officials of two offending mills "we definitely can see an end to the problem."

"Unfortunately," the mayor said, "this will not come about as soon as we would like. But there will be a progressive improvement in the situation over the next few months as new equipment is installed."

TO DRAFT BYLAW

Aldermen unanimously approved Mayor Wilson's suggestion that the city solicitor be instructed to bring forward legislation which would outlaw open burners starting May 15, 1965.

Nigeria

Police Get Tough

LAGOS (CP-Reuters) — Nigeria's general strike entered its 12th day today with evidence that both police and businessmen are taking a tougher attitude toward the strikers.

The police used tear gas against strikers gathered Wednesday night near the United Labor Congress to hear reports of the strike.

Stampede started. Hundreds were scared into a stampede as the police used gas for the first time since the strike began over governmental rejection of wage increases recommended by an official commission.

Ultimatum issued. Several firms in Lagos reported a break in the strike following an ultimatum issued by major companies telling their workers to return by Friday or be dismissed.

An exception would be made. Mayor Wilson said, "only in cases of the utmost emergency," when waste burning would be carried out under a daily permit issued by the city.

DEFINITION STATED

He said following the meeting that a definition of what would constitute an emergency would have to be agreed upon during framing of the new legislation, which is to start immediately.

Council earlier heard a strong protest from merchants in the Mayfair shopping centre and a corroboration from city smoke inspector Sam Mottishaw, who reported tests show an increase in flyash fallout at the $5,000,000 shopping complex since mid-February.

REPLIES READ

Replies to council's inquiry as to when the offending waste-burners would be shut down, was also read.

H. A. Smith, president of Smith Cedar Products Ltd., said this would be achieved by May 15 next year and "we will make every effort to advance this date if at all possible."

REDUCE FLYASH

The firm also undertook to install "with the utmost possible speed" a chipping plant which will reduce the amount of waste material going into the burner and thus bringing an earlier improvement in the flyash situation.

Efforts to find a market for hog fuel, which have met with no success so far, will be continued and indications are that this goal will be achieved by early summer of 1965. At that time the burner will be "dismantled and shut down," said Mr. Smith.

Herbert Barnes, spokesman for British Columbia Forest products, Point Elsie division, said the mill is to remain in operation until the end of this

Yes, Says Wife

Oswald After Nixon?

DALLAS (UPI)—Mrs. Marina Oswald, the widow of President Kennedy's accused assassin, said she believes she persuaded her husband from trying to kill former Vice-President Nixon in 1963, the Dallas Morning News said today.

The paper also quoted the Russian-born woman as saying she wouldn't have married Lee Harvey Oswald if they had met in the United States. The two met in Minsk, Russia, when Oswald was visiting there.

Mrs. Oswald also said that her husband considered former Maj. Gen. Edwin A. Walker "an extremist" and he believed he had done the right thing last April 30 when he shot at Walker. Police ballistics reports were inconclusive on the bullet fired at Walker.

Mrs. Oswald said she felt that her husband did not hate President Kennedy or Governor Connally, but that he fired the fatal shots because "he wanted to be a big shot."

Turkish Leaders Cheerful

ANKARA (AP)—Turkish leaders radiated optimism Thursday night that a military showdown over Cyprus can be avoided with Greece after talking with George W. Ball, U.S. undersecretary of state.

"We are on the way to find a solution," Premier Ismet Inönü told reporters shortly after Ball left for Washington. "The allies have made and are making efforts to resolve the question between Greece and Turkey." The only jarring note was a Greek assertion that three Turkish fighter planes flew low over Rhodes, sending the population into a panic.

Gardener Fired, Fined

'I Spanked Her Bottom'

LONDON (AP) — Viscount Portman's head gardener admitted Thursday he gave Lady Portman a severe spanking to show her who was boss in the Portman greenhouse.

"I soundly spanked her bottom," Frank Klingenspor said in a magistrate's court in the Buckinghamshire village of Beaconsfield.

The judge fined the 61-year-old gardener £30 ($80) on a charge of assault, put him under a bond of £50 ($150) to keep the peace for the next 12 months and ordered him to stay at least one mile distant from the Portman estate for the next three years.

The prosecution said the dispute, which culminated in the spanking of her ladyship, who is 47, occurred May 30 in the greenhouse of the Portman estate, Bury House.

Said the prosecutor: "Lady Portman made a normal and reasonable request for Mr. Klingenspor to leave the greenhouse unlocked in the afternoon as she and her husband wanted to use it."

"Mr. Klingenspor replied 'indeed I will not. I am not going to have you mucking around my plants when I'm not here.'"

door, threw her down and beat her.

"Her ladyship," said the prosecutor, "suffered a considerable degree of bruising and abrasion."

His lordship fired the gardener forthwith.

Testifying in his own defense, Klingenspor said he was only defending his flowers.

He conceded that he lost his temper with her ladyship. "I put my arms on the back of her neck to get her out and in the struggle pushed her to the ground," he said. "I then soundly smacked her bottom. She may have had cuts and bruises, but it wasn't malicious on my part."

Fifth of a Series:
Conversation with

Invasion: 1944

U.S. 101st Division paratroopers falling behind Utah Beach.

Success of Troop Drop Ike's Greatest Worry

General, how do you think we succeeded so well in keeping the secret of the invasion day and location from the German high command?

We took extreme measures to keep the secret of the invasion. When we started to move the assault troops to their embarkation places in England, we permed them up and wouldn't let them out. We couldn't afford to have them running around in the villages talking to everyone!

We went so far as to stop all diplomatic exchanges from the embassies of the world with London. This was embarrassing to the British government, but they stuck right by it.

We did everything to keep information from getting out.

On top of that, we did a lot to confuse the enemy. We activated phantom armies—that is, made the enemy believe we really had armies that didn't exist. We had radios going with phantom messages for phantom units, hoping that the enemy would intercept these fake communications.

To show you how well we succeeded, Gen. (Hans) Spel del of the German Army, who was (German Gen. Erwin) Rommel's Chief of Staff in France, wrote a book five years after the war. In that book he said, "We wondered why the Allies didn't use their 75 divisions at once." We did not have 75 divisions! We had something like 35 in England, including Canadian, British, one Polish, one French, and all of our own.

to lick the problem. Sam Mottishaw, fourth from left, said tests confirm more fallout on Mayfair but measures proposed by mills will bring about an improvement in next few months. Harold Gregson, second from right, a week ago resigned from air pollution advisory board which he helped found, because council would not take action against offending mills. He listened attentively to yesterday's debate but didn't speak.—(Jim Ryan photos)

Rape Case

Drunken Party Enjoyed by All Claims Accused

NANAIMO—One of three men standing trial for the rape of a 25-year-old Nanaimo woman Feb. 10 told an Assize Court jury Thursday: "This was a drunken party and she was enjoying it just as much as the rest of us."

Walter Francis Norton, testifying on behalf of himself, Leo McEachern and Roy Curtis McLellan, said the woman's testimony that she had undergone brutal and repeated assault by the three men was "an out and out lie."

He told the court that after he and his two friends had picked up the woman and her husband on the Island Highway near Rutherford Road they had made a deal with the husband to take his wife for half an hour. Norton said they let the husband out at the North End of the Lantzville cutoff and at that time he told them to bring his wife back in half an hour.

Both the man and his wife had earlier testified that the three men threatened them and that the man jumped out of the car as it was still moving, making a vain attempt to take his wife with him. She had testified that one of the three accused was holding her by the hair.

'Like Bunch of Fools'

Norton said he had been on a beer drinking party with the other two and admitted: "We acted like a bunch of fools." He denied the statement of the woman that they acted like animals. He denied knowing that the couple was married and that the woman was more than five months pregnant.

He said they drove to a gravel pit in a remote area west of Pleasant Valley with McLellan and the woman in the back seat. "I presume they were making love. I didn't look back to see what was going on in the back seat. They were making love in the back seat... to what extent I don't know."

Norton told the court the woman had removed her own clothes, denying her allegation that the three accused had torn them from her. He admitted making love to her outside of the car and when asked by Mr. Justice Angelo Branca if she did not object to the cold, Norton replied: "She had enough beer in her that she wasn't feeling any pain."

Talked About Hunting

Norton said he and the other two had often hunted in this area and talked about hunting and fishing. Mr. Justice Branca asked: "Why would you talk to each other about hunting during a sexual orgy like this?"

"We were on a party," said Norton. "I was drunk and they were drunk, too. She was enjoying the festivities as much as we were. It was a drunken party."

Norton denied the suggestion of defence counsel E. D. Strongthorn that the trio had blackmailed the husband into letting them take his wife by telling him they would inform the authorities he was peddling deer meat. The husband admitted earlier in the trial he had thrown a quarter of deer meat from the car during the ride through Lantzville.

When asked how he managed to appear sober to police witnesses who apprehended the three men, Norton replied: "When I'm drunk and confronted with some police officers, I tend to go into some kind of state of shock that helps me to compose myself."

All witnesses have been called and the case is expected to go to the jury today.

DUNCAN — A former Duncan resident, Dr. Conrad Swan, will lead the annual garter procession at Windsor Castle—marking the first time in the 616-year history of Europe's oldest order of chivalry that a Canadian has led the procession.

The Order of the Garter is considered perhaps the world's most ancient order of chivalry. It was founded in August, 1348, by Edward III, just after he had assumed the title King of France.

This year's garter ceremony takes place Monday outside Windsor Castle and at neighboring St. George's Chapel, burial place of British kings. Dr. Swan, who holds the title of Rouge Dragon Pursuivant of Arms, will lead the procession because the honor falls by tradition on the most recently appointed officer.

Born on Vancouver Island 31 years ago, he left here at the age of 13 to go to a private school in Weybridge, Surrey. He later took degrees at Assumption University in Windsor, Ont., and at the University of Western Ontario, in London, Ont. He lectured at Assumption from 1956 to 1959.

Dr. Swan now lives at Bonford, Suffolk, with his English wife, Lady Hilda, and their four young children ranging from four months to 4½ years.

The job of Rouge Dragon was bestowed on Dr. Swan about a year ago. He is an apprentice herald and it is a full-time job. Leading the procession of heralds, knights and the Queen, who is the sovereign of the order, Dr. Swan will wear red jacket, black breeches and a coat of rich velvet, along with a Tudor cap of velvet embroidered with the royal badge of the rose.

Strike Backlash

Loggers, Office Staffs Face Layoff Notices

PORT ALBERNI—About 1,000 men at the Sprout Lake and Franklin River operations of MacMillan, Bloedel and Powell River Limited may be laid off within a few days, a company spokesman said yesterday.

The men are employed in logging camps which supply the four MB and PR plants here with timber for processing.

NOT NEEDED

They will soon not be needed because of the closure involving a strike by 60 office workers and an additional 3,500 workers refusing to cross picket lines.

"It is obviously only a matter of time before these operations must close," said the company spokesman.

STAY ON SALARY

The company is also expected to ask an additional 250 to 300 supervisory personnel at the plants not to report to work next week, although these people will remain on salary.

Services of the supervisory personnel will not be needed until the strike is settled, said the company spokesman.

Meanwhile, the spokesman denied that MacMillan-Bloedel ordered its supervisory staff at Port Alberni to "put all operations in moth balls and teach the unions a lesson."

The statement was attributed to the company by Russ St. Elol, president of the B.C. Federation of Labor (CLC). He said the statement was a calculated attempt to destroy all unions in the Alberni Valley and "to starve the community into submission."

Steps were being taken to provide food shipments to the workers and their families.

A company spokesman said Thursday night the office workers in two sawmills and a plywood plant will receive notice today they need not report for work until the strike is over.

The spokesman did not say how many office workers will be laid off.

A company spokesman confirmed there has been a difference of opinion about fire prevention methods and said the issue has been referred to the IWA District Council and Forest Industrial Relations Ltd.

Fraser Valley Puddles Grow

By AP, UPI

While Montana and Alberta, shaking off shock and fatigue, are starting clean-up operations on areas from which flood waters have subsided, torrents rushed over highways and two railways in Northern British Columbia yesterday to turn the lower Fraser Valley into a big puddle.

Australians Battle Vast Flood

SYDNEY (Reuters) — Vast floods covered almost 20,000 square miles of the Australian state of New South Wales yesterday.

The floods have led to one death by drowning, the evacuation of hundreds of people from their homes and an estimated hundreds of thousands of pounds in damage.

The floods extend for 200 miles.

Yes, Says Wife

Oswald After Nixon?

DALLAS (UPI) — Mrs. Marina Oswald, the widow of President Kennedy's accused assassin, said she believes she persuaded her husband from trying to kill former Vice-President Nixon in 1963, the Dallas Morning News said today.

The paper also quoted the Russian-born woman as saying she wouldn't have married Lee Harvey Oswald if they had met in the United States. The two met in Minsk, Russia, when Oswald was visiting there.

Mrs. Oswald also said that her husband considered former Maj. Gen. Edwin A. Walker "an extremist" and he believed he had done the right thing last April 30 when he shot at Walker. Police ballistics reports were inconclusive on the bullet fired at Walker.

Mrs. Oswald said she felt that her husband did not hate President Kennedy or Governor Connally, but that he fired the fatal shot because "he wanted to be a big shot."

Gardener Fired, Fined

'I Spanked Her Bottom'

LONDON (AP) — Viscount Portman's head gardener admitted Thursday he gave Lady Portman a severe spanking to show her who was boss in the Portman greenhouse.

"I soundly spanked her bottom," Frank Klingenspor said in a magistrate's court in the Buckinghamshire village of Beaconsfield.

The judge fined the 61-year-old gardener £30 ($300) on a charge of assault, put him under a bond of £50 ($150) to keep the peace for the next 12 months and ordered him to stay at least one mile distant from the Portman estate for the next three years.

The prosecution said the dispute, which culminated in the spanking of her ladyship, who is 47, occurred May 30 in the greenhouse of the Portman estate, Burlington House.

Said the prosecutor: "Lady Portman made a normal and reasonable request for Mr. Klingenspor to leave the greenhouse unlocked in the afternoon as she and her husband wanted to use it."

"Mr. Klingenspor replied 'indeed I will not. I am not going to have you mucking around my plants when I'm not here.'"

door, threw her down and beat her.

"Her ladyship," said the prosecutor, "suffered a considerable degree of bruising and abrasion."

His lordship fired the gardener forthwith.

Testifying in his own defence, Klingenspor said he was only defending his flowers.

He conceded that he lost his temper with her ladyship.

"I put my arms on the back of her neck to get her out and in the struggle pushed her to the ground," he said. "I then soundly smacked her bottom. She may have had cuts and bruises, but it wasn't malicious on my part."

SANTO DOMINGO (Reuters) — A heavy death toll with hundreds of injured was feared early today after Santo Domingo in the Dominican Republic was rocked by a series of shattering explosions.

Fire in the munitions store of an army training centre touched off the explosions, which shattered windows more than a mile away.

Explosion were still being heard and flames lit up the sky four hours after the first mighty blast levelled the camp.

Immediately after the first explosions guards were placed around the camp, which can hold up to 1,200 men.

In the downtown section, a mile from the camp, streets were littered with broken plate glass from windows.

Officials would not estimate casualties but the injured reported arriving at hospitals "in hundreds."

In Central Santo Domingo, separated by a river from the camp, dozens of persons were cut by flying glass.

Thunderous explosions of heavy shells and the crackle of small arms ammunition could be heard. Occasionally the sky above the column of flame was illuminated as scores of flames were ignited.

On the main street of Santo Domingo not one store escaped damage. All glass doors and windows were pulverized.

Police and troops stood guard in the commercial districts to prevent looting.

It appeared to be the worst disaster in the history of Santo Domingo.

End in Sight For 'Beehives'

By IAN STREET

City council yesterday initiated action that will lead to banning of beehive waste burners—major source of air pollution—but decided to give operators until May 15, 1965, to comply.

Mayor R. B. Wilson told yesterday's council meeting that after private talks with officials of two offending mills "we definitely can see an end to the problem."

"Unfortunately," the mayor said, "this will not come about as soon as we would like. But there will be a progressive improvement in the situation over the next few months as new equipment is installed."

Aldermen unanimously approved Mayor Wilson's suggestion that the city solicitor be instructed to bring forward legislation which would outlaw open burners starting May 15, 1965.

An exception would be made, Mayor Wilson said, "only in cases of the utmost emergency," when waste burning would be carried out under a daily permit issued by the city.

He said following the meeting that a definition of what would constitute an emergency would have to be agreed upon during framing of the new legislation, which is to start immediately.

Council earlier heard a strong protest from merchants in the Mayfair shopping centre and corroboration from city smoke inspector Sam Mottishaw, who reported tests show an increase in flyash fallout at the $5,000,000 shopping complex since mid-February.

REPLIES READ

Replies to council's inquiry as to when the offending waste-burners would be shut down, was also read.

H. A. Smith, president of Smith Cedar Products Ltd., said this would be achieved by May 15 next year and "we will make every effort to advance this date if at all possible."

REDUCE FLYASH

The firm also undertook to install "with the utmost possible speed" a chipping plant which will reduce the amount of waste material going into the burner and thus bringing an earlier improvement in the flyash situation.

Efforts to find a market for hog fuel, which have met with no success so far, will be continued and indications are that this goal will be achieved by early summer of 1965. At that time the burner will be "dis-mantled and shut down," said Mr. Smith.

Herbert Barnes, spokesman for British Columbia Forest products, Point Ellice division, said the mill is to remain in operation until the end of this

Bare-Breasted Beach Girl Here Years Ahead of Time

NEW YORK (AP) — The nude deal in fashion is here. And nobody is more surprised than the designers who brought it about and some of the buyers who are buying it.

"It's incredible," said weary Rudi Gernreich Thursday after a hectic day of taking orders for his topless ladies' bathing suit model.

"The time is right for it, I guess," said the California designer.

"But I did not make up my mind to sell it until three days ago."

Meanwhile in the garment district, Bill Smith, designer for Roban's Fashion House, was also exclaiming delightedly over the buyers' orders for his sheer-bodied dresses.

Only the filmiest layer of flesh - colored marquisette "for figure control" separates the net surface of the blouse from the bare truth.

Recently décolletage has become so "de" that dresses are a mere deep breath away from being topless anyway. The bare-chested woman of the beach was a trend which Gernreich prognosticated not for now but another three or four years hence.

Only to demonstrate how such a swimsuit might look, Gernreich created one. The model appeared in magazines and the orders followed.

Dream Walking

RHODES (AP) — Traffic stopped. On a first-floor balcony of a popular resort hotel on this Greek isle stood a beautiful golden-haired girl in the nude, staring calmly into space. Police reported the foreign tourist was sleep-walking.

Conversation with Eisenhower as he looks back to Invasion: 1944

U.S. 101st Division paratroopers falling behind Utah Beach.

Success of Troop Drop Ike's Greatest Worry

General, how do you think we succeeded so well in keeping the secret of the invasion day and location from the German high command?

We took extreme measures to keep the secret of the invasion. When we started to move the assault troops to their embarkation places in England, we penned them up and wouldn't let them out. We couldn't afford to have them running around in the villages talking to everyone!

We went so far as to stop all diplomatic exchanges from the embassies of the world with London. This was embarrassing to the British government, but they stuck right by it.

We did everything to keep information from getting out.

On top of that, we did a lot to confuse the enemy. We activated phantom armies—that is, made the enemy believe we really had armies that didn't exist. We had radios going with phantom messages for phantom units, hoping that the enemy would intercept these fake communications.

To show you how well we succeeded, Gen. (Hans) Spel-dei of the German Army, who was (German Gen. Erwin) Rommel's Chief of Staff in France, wrote a book five years after the war. In that book he said, "We wondered why the Allies didn't use their 75 divisions at once." We did not have 75 divisions! We had something like 35 in England, including Canadian, British, one Polish, one French, and all of our own.

Even more than that, our deception measures kept them strong enemy forces in the
